LITTLE RESISTANCE BY LOYAL FORCES

Insurgent Officers Declare Government Men Are Abandoning Fight—Two Important Railroads Cut
by Shell Fire.

By the Associated Press.
WITH THE SPANISH FASCIST
ARMY SOUTH OF MADRID, Nov.
1—Gen. Jose Varela's Fascist troops occupied Fuenlabrada, seven miles south of the capital, today.
The village of Pinto, at one end of a semicircular line about 10 miles south of Madrid, also was captured.
Fuenlabrada is less than three miles from the military airport in Government-held Getafe, a Madrid suburb. The day's objective was gained after only two hours of decisive fighting. Three columns of Moors and Foreign Legionnaires converged on the town, meeting only slight resistance despite the activity of Government artillery batteries.

Fascist planes dropped bombs on Getafe and Madrid suburbs, throwing up clouds of smoke that were visible from a church steeple at Grisol, 10 miles away.

Preparations were being completed for an imminent attack on Government soldiers who are thought to have constructed concrete entrenchments behind Getafe.

Columns of tanks mounting machine guns and light cannon, followed the highway together with big guns.
Fascist officers expected to march into the capital not later than Friday unless unexpected resistance develops. The fascists already can cut the rail buildings of Madrid.

Gen. Varela's officers said Government troops were abandoning the fight and were literally running back to Madrid. Four women were the only persons found when the fascists entered the deserted village of Pinto.

Two railroads from Madrid, one to Toledo and the other to Arancuez, were cut near Getafe by shell fire, sending Government armored trains back to the capital.

Rebel Bomber Crashes.
An insurgent tri-motored Martin bomber fell near Talavera de la Reina. The plane was shot down in flames by two Government fighters from such a low altitude that two insurgent pilots and a machine-gunner were unable to bail out properly. They fell to earth under half-opened parachutes, and were killed.

Although Government captives were quoted as saying the Madrid defenses were used 11 Russian tanks yesterday, they did not appear in action today. The correspondent inspected one large captured tank in the road near Parla. Two machine guns, a small cannon and dials on the instrument board were marked with Russian characters.

He also saw pamphlets addressed to the militiamen by Premier Francisco Largo Caballero informing them, "Now we have a strong force of tanks and warplanes."

Persons on Madrid's High Buildings Watch Fighting.
MADRID, Nov. 3.—Air raid sirens were sounded in Madrid every half hour today as insurgent planes flew high overhead, and watchers, stop the city's highest buildings, got a plain view of the warfare to the south and west.

The planes, flying well out of the range of anti-aircraft batteries, dropped leaflets urging surrender.
From the roofs of the city's skyscrapers, observers saw flames arise from the battlefield as planes dropped incendiary bombs on troops.

Early Returns

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 3.—Fragmentary early returns from the home State of Gov. Alf M. Landon, including large blocks from cities which went Democratic in 1932 and a scattering elsewhere, showed Landon and President Roosevelt running a close race today. Unofficial and incomplete returns from 294 of the State's 2690 precincts gave Roosevelt 17,230 and Landon 16,143. The early tabulations reflected quickly gathered returns in Wyandotte County and Sedwick County, in which Kansas City, Kan., and Wichita, respectively, are.
There was a scattering of reports from the relatively rural area.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—At 3:30 p. m. today the following totals of incomplete and unofficial returns were reported: Kansas, Roosevelt 17,230, Landon 16,143; Missouri,
Roosevelt 6411, Landon 4916; Texas,
Roosevelt 5569, Landon 692; West Virginia, Roosevelt 2325, Landon 1476.

official returns from 13 Greene County precincts, including 11 in Landon 1212. Five city and one rural precinct gave for Governor, Stark 573, Barrett 689.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 3.—Unofficial returns from two precincts today gave Roosevelt 294, Landon 260.
A Smithtown Township precinct unofficially gave Roosevelt 15, Landon plete unofficial returns from 20 precincts gave Roosevelt 2615, Landon

New Madrid County precincts this afternoon gave: Roosevelt, 768; Landon, 496; Stark, 773; Barrett, 501.

NORFOLK, Neb., Nov. 3.—Incomplete returns from three Norfolk precincts gave: Roosevelt 165 and Landon 151. Four years ago, this county voted more than 2 to 1 for Roosevelt.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 3.—Incomplete returns from 30 scattered precincts in Huntington gave Landon 1176 votes and Roosevelt 1926. At Fairmont, the first five precincts to report gave Roosevelt 399 and Landon 300.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 3.—Returns from New Hampshire's first three towns to report in today's presidential election gave a 10-10 tie for Roosevelt and Landon. Waterville gave Landon four, Roosevelt one; Livermore, Landon one, Roosevelt seven, and Millsfield, Landon five, Roosevelt two.

DENVER, Nov. 3.—Incomplete unofficial returns from 27 scattered precincts in Denver today

don 752.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 3.—Incomplete unofficial returns from 34 of 152 Oklahoma City precincts today gave President Roosevelt 3829 votes to 1749 for Gov. Lancratic ticket, State and national.

MAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FRAUDULENT VOTING

Taken Into Custody After Giving
Name of Registered Voter Who Appears at Polls.

A man who said he was William Walsh, 48 years old, 221 South Broadway, was arrested this morning in the polling place of the Second Precinct of the Sixth Ward and was booked at Police Headquarters on a charge of fraudulent voting.

Deputy Election Commissioner
William Reese, 4322 Delor street, who caused Walsh's arrest, told police the only William Walsh entitled to vote in that precinct was a man 75 years old, who also lives at 221 South Broadway.

The younger man of the same name told reporters he had voted for four years in that precinct, which has its polling place at 204 South Sixth street. He said he had not registered last September because he did not think it was necessary. After voting this morning, he said, he had remained near the polling place, serving as a Democratic precinct worker. He was arrested when the William Walsh who is registered appeared at the polling place and asked for a ballot.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—As 45-000,000 or more voters go to the polls today to register their choice for President and Vice-President, they have before them the confident predictions of virtually every informed political observer that Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N.
Garner will be re-elected. Never in recent political history has there been such unanimity among the experts.

So far, the known expenditures of the campaign are more than $15-000,000, and great enthusiasm has been aroused. The issue was Roosevelt and whether he should be given four more years to attempt to carry out the New Deal program. As predicted in these columns a year ago, the Democratic propaganda centered on the question: "Are you better off today than you were in 1932?" and the Republican slogan was: "Turn the spenders out."

As the campaign marched to a climax within the last month, it became apparent that the fight was between experienced professional politicians on the Democratic side and a hastily constructed Republican organization manned by enthusiastic partisans who, to use their own words, based their strategy on a "psychological swing" from Roosevelt and the New Deal. These Republican strategists predicted that 1936 would be a repetition of 1896, when Bryan and free silver were the issues. They apparently forgot that the times and the conditions have changed.

If the 1896 comparison has any validity it is that Roosevelt has succeeded where Bryan failed. In this campaign, as in that one, the cleavage has been broadly along economic lines, between what the Democrats call the proletariat and the bourgeoisie groups sometimes conveniently classified in this country as the "have nots" and the "haves."

President Roosevelt's personal appeal to the people has been so successful that Democratic National Chairman Farley in the confidence of private conversations expresses the considered judgment that the Republicans cannot carry more than six states.

The President, knowing that he has lost the support of the comparatively small group at the top of the "have nots"—economic royalists has termed them—felt so confident of re-election that he declared, amid the cheers of the Madison Square Garden crowd Saturday night, that he welcomed their hatred and shouted defiantly, "We have only just begun to fight."

Disappointment was the lot of those voters who thought national issues would be debated by the principal candidates and their supporters. The campaign was like the old Ziegfeld Follies, gaudy but without plot. This was in keeping with the Democratic grand strategy of putting on a good show to camouflage the practical organizing of voters.

Pendergast Made It Clear.
"National elections, national politics," Boss Tom Pendergast said in an interview at the Philadelphia convention, "are just Kansas City on a big scale. It boils down to the wards and precincts.
The whole thing is to have an organization that functions in every ward and precinct. That's where the votes come from. The fundamental secret is to get the vote registered and then get it out after its registered. That's all there is to it."

"All this hallelujah and showmanship at the convention is all right.
It's a great show. It gives the folks a run for their money. It makes everybody feel good. But the man who makes the organization possible is the man who delivers the vote, and he doesn't deliver them by oratory. No, he's got to keep everlastingly at it. It's no part time job. It's a business, like anything else."

Roosevelt has had every Democratic boss with him, while the Republican political machine is still in a bad state of disrepair because of the Democratic victories in 1930, 1932 and 1934. In addition, there are Democratic administrations with their usual domination of election boards, in 38 States. And in appealing to the "have nots" he had the active support of the labor organizations, of many liberals and the passive support of the Communists. Much of this support went against the grain of many of the old-time Democrats, such as Senators Glass, Byrd, Tydings and Cope land, but they retained their allegiance to the Democratic party along with the professional office holders such as Senators Robinson, Harrison and McKellar.

Maritime Board Postpones Hearing When Labor
Representatives Bolt
Opening Session.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Leaders of the general maritime strike on the Pacific Coast called today for a tie-up of all American ships.
Instructions headed "New Policy," issued by the joint committee representing seven dock and seagoing unions, ordered crews of Pacific Coast ships to walk off at "any United States port." Crews of all other American ships were urged to join in sit-down strikes.

A hearing here by the Federal Maritime Commission, from which union representatives bolted yesterday, was postponed indefinitely by Admiral Harry G. Hamlet.

"The unions cannot recognize the authority of the Maritime Commission to determine any of the issues in dispute, or to deprive the membership of the unions of their legal rights for collective bargaining in order to determine wages, hours and other conditions of labor," said a union statement.

Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward P. McGrady continued efforts for a resumption of negotiations looking to a settlement. The immediate issue was the employers' demand that "safety crews" remain on ships tied up by the strike.

"We will have to take whatever steps are necessary," said Thomas G. Plant, of the employers' committee, "to put men aboard for the safety of the vessels."

Vessels tied up in Pacific ports increased to 150 or more. Joseph Curran, head of the Seamen's Defense Committee at New York, said 153 ships were idle at Atlantic and Gulf ports.

Two Large Passenger Ships Cancel
Sailings From New York.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Sailings of two large passenger ships, the Manhattan and the Virginia, were canceled yesterday because of the sit-down strike by seamen in New York harbor.

The Manhattan of the United States Line was the first trans-Atlantic passenger liner affected. The Virginia was scheduled to leave New York for Cohn and Plymouth tomorrow.

Earlier, the sailing of the Panama Pacific liner Virginia, due to leave today for Pacific ports, was canceled. It had been scheduled to carry a crew of 379. None of the crew signed on for the voyage, however.

The 100 crew men of the Robert E. Lee of the Old Dominion Line were discharged and refused to let their ship depart.

Boston Seamen's Union Branch
Votes to Strike.
BOSTON, Nov. 3.—Representatives here of the International Seamen's Union have voted to strike immediately in sympathy with maritime workers on the Pacific Coast, Dennis Murphy, chairman of the strike committee, announced today. Murphy said about a dozen freighters, tied up here, would be affected and about 300 men would be involved.

CITY MAKING NEW VOTING RECORD; 300,000 BALLOTS CAST IN FIRST 10 HOURS

THE Chief Executive and his son, Franklin, Jr., signing the enrollment blank at Hyde Park, N. Y.

SEVEN POLL OFFICIALS FIRED IN TWO WARDS

Removed by Board in Jimmy Miller's and Mike Kinney's Districts.

Seven precinct officials in Jimmy Miller's Fourth Ward, and seven in State Senator Mike Kinney's Fifth Ward were removed by the Board of Election Commissioners during the voting today "for failing to perform their duties."

In each instance the board was informed that the officials discharged were marking ballots improperly for illiterate voters. Substitutes immediately took the places of those discharged.

The board was told that illiterates were asked whether they were Republicans or Democrats and that "straight" tickets were voted for all, a Republican official marking the ballots of Republican voters, a Democratic official marking the ballots of Democratic voters. The board's instructions to precinct officials were that ballots for illiterates were to be marked only in the presence of two election judges of opposite parties.

Fourth Ward Removals.
Fourth Ward officials removed were serving in the Eighth and Tenth precincts. Those in the Eighth, which had its polling place at 1804 Cass avenue, were Joseph Anthony Walski, 1814 Cass avenue,
Republican judge; Herbert Hage, 1519A Cass avenue, Democratic judge, and William Garvey, 1325 North Nineteenth street, Democratic clerk.

Discharged officials in the Tenth precinct, which had its polling place at 1306 Sarfield place, were:
John Zienta, 1824 O'Fallon street,
Republican clerk; Frank Kalwa, 1909A O'Fallon street, Democratic judge; Marion Budo, 1310 Sarfield place, Democratic clerk, and Teles-ford Imbierowicz, 2026 Cass avenue, Democratic judge.

In the Ninth Precinct of the Fifth Ward three officials in the "A" polling place at 1923 Franklin avenue were discharged. The precinct was one in which two polling places were established because of the heavy registration. Those removed were Joseph Ammons, 618 Chestnut street, Democratic judge; John B.
Lyons, 1329A North Sarah street, Democratic clerk, and Alexander F.
Levy, 935 North Tenth street, Republican clerk.

Those discharged in the Eighth Precinct of the Fifth Ward, which had its polling place at 223 North Twentieth street, were Ralph Crabtree, 508 Chestnut street, Democratic clerk; Joseph Dean, 604 Chestnut street, Democratic judge; Albert Schnurr, 1407A Franklin avenue, Republican clerk, and Lawrence Airing, 1919A Olive street, Democratic judge.

The board was informed that in this precinct persons whose names had been scratched from the registration were voting.

PRESIDENT AND HIS FAMILY CAST VOTES AT HYDE PARK

Roosevelt Is 312th Voter at Town Hall Polling Place; Wears Andrew Jackson's Chain.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 3.— President Roosevelt and eight members and friends of his family cast their votes shortly before noon today in the town hall in this village's First Election District.

The President, wearing a gray suit and blue tie covered with white donkey designs, walked into the hall on the arm of his third son, Franklin Jr. He also wore Andrew Jackson's heavy gold watch chain, a gift in the last few days.

He was the 312th to vote in his district, which has 768 registrants.
The chain—a heavy one with figures of dogs chasing a fox, was attached to an old gold hunting case watch that belonged to the President's father.

CLEAR WEATHER ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

Abnormally Cold West of Mississippi, Unusually Warm in East

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Charles L. Mitchell, Washington forecaster, said today the weather for the entire country was "unusually clear," even though the temperature was below zero in some parts of the West.

On a scale of inclement weather extended from Western New York and Pennsylvania down through Ohio and south to Louisiana and Eastern Texas, where rains were reported.

In general, Mitchell said it was "abnormally cold west of the Mississippi River for this early in November and abnormally warm to the east and southeast."

The record low temperatures for this early in November were reported at Yellowstone Park with 6 degrees below zero; Devil's Lake, N.
D., 2 degrees below, and Salt Lake City, 6 degrees above.

Snow was a foot deep in Western and Northeastern South Dakota, blocking many country roads. Ice covered streets and highways at Sioux Falls. Northwestern Minnesota had eight inches of snow, while roads were icy in the southern part of that State, threatening to cut down the rural vote.

HEAVY VOTING IN NEW YORK; LONG LINES WAIT AT POLLS

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The heaviest voting in the city's history was reported by some election commissioners making the rounds of polling places today.

In some districts of Manhattan 20 per cent of the registered vote had been cast at 11 a. m., five hours after the polls opened. Long lines of men and women awaited their turns at the voting machines.
All indications pointed to a record vote. The registration, 2,599, 123, was 60,519 more than the 1932 registration. The total vote four years ago was 2,161,797.

Before noon several dozen arrests had been made on charges of illegal registration. Disorders, however, were few.

FARLEY DECLARES ELECTION OVER; ROOSEVELT "IN"

In Radio Address Democratic Chairman Says Even Philadelphia Is Deserting G. O. P.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—James
A. Farley, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in a radio speech today, announced that on the basis of reports pouring into him from local organizations and individuals all over the country the nation was voting overwhelmingly for President Roosevelt.

"Messages are pouring into headquarters from local organizations and individuals and the significant thing is that more people are voting everywhere than ever before," Farley said.

"In the course of the morning and early afternoon I have heard from every state in the Union. I have had reports from most of the more than 3000 county chairmen in all parts of the country. Without exception, what they tell me gives us the greatest satisfaction."

"First reports showing President Roosevelt leading in Kansas are no surprise to me. I say the landslide is on because from not a place west of the Hudson have I heard a word that would lead me to believe that the Republican candidate will carry a single state from the great river to the Pacific Ocean."

No Break in Farm States.
"The farm states, the mountain country, and the coastal regions are supporting the President without a break in their line."

"I firmly believe that New Hampshire by nightfall will have joined the company of those who are proud to be counted on the side of the President."

"Words of even greater cheer reached me from Massachusetts.
The Bay State is still with us, I am assured. The ratio of Democratic votes already cast, according to our watchers at the polls, insures victory for the President by a plurality of 150 in that state."

"Naturally these reports are subject to the charge that they are partisan sources. However, there would be no sense in a precinct leader on election day giving the national chairman of his party anything but his honest opinion."

Comment on New York.
Farley said New York State was supporting the President with "enthusiastic loyalty."

"Reports reaching me from the update districts are evidence of the fact that by the time the polls close,
however, were few.

A round-figure vote of 300,000, heavy beyond previous St. Louis records, and indicative of the intense interest in today's general and presidential election, was cast in the city up to 4 p. m., in the first 10 hours of the 13-hour voting day. This was 70 per cent of the record registration, which is 428,786.

With the increased pressure of late afternoon voters, it was expected that the final figures at closing time, 7 o'clock this evening, would exceed the 384,000 estimated by Chairman Charles F. Williams of the Election Board, and might approach 400,000. Heavy voting was reported throughout Missouri, with a total possibly exceeding 1,700,000 forecast for the State's 4387 polling places.

Weather Is Cold.
When the first voters reached the polls the temperature was 33 degrees. Thereafter the temperature was around freezing.

Indicative of the intense interest of the voters were such reports as these: Ninety of 696 persons registered in a Fifteenth Ward precinct voted by 7:30 o'clock this morning; 198 of 769 registered in a Twenty-seventh Ward precinct voted by 9 o'clock; 181 votes cast in a Thirteenth Ward precinct by 8:30 o'clock.

In the Sixteenth Ward, Sixth Precinct, a voter who for years has made a practice of voting between 8 and 9 a. m., and has always had a serial number between 20 and 30, appeared today before 9 and was surprised to learn that he was number 209.

The heavy voting was general throughout the city. Special efforts were exerted by the strong Democratic organization to get voters out early.

Mayor First in His Precinct.
Mayor Dickmann was the first voter in his precinct, the Thirteenth of the Fourteenth Ward, shortly after the polls opened at 6 o'clock. He said he went early
"as an example to the people."

The city's 718 polling places will close at 7, and ballots must be deposited in the boxes by that time. Persons marking ballots at that time or waiting in line will not be allowed to vote.

City, State and many Federal offices were closed. Their thousands of employees were busy in the forces of political precinct workers getting out the vote. Courts were closed, except for that of Circuit Judge Robert J. Kilgus. He and the grand jury and Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller were on duty all day to act promptly on any election complaints. Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan said his office was open because of rumors reaching him that some interests might foster delays at the polls to keep down the volume of voting.

During the afternoon Judge Kir-wood moved from his usual courtroom in the Municipal Courts Building to a courtroom in the

VOTE IN COUNTY IS EXCEPTIONALLY LARGE AND EARLY

By 3 P. M., It Is Estimated,
65 Per Cent of the 120,- 000 Registered Had Cast Ballots.

NEW LAW CAUSE OF SOME DELAY

Signing of Names, Under Permanent Registration Act Provision, Slows Proceedings.

An exceptionally heavy vote in St. Louis County was indicated by the large numbers who cast ballots during the morning and early afternoon today. By 3 p. m., at least 65 per cent of those registered had voted, election workers said after canvassing selected precincts in various parts of the county.
It appeared possible that the total vote might exceed previous estimates by election officials that 110,000 of the registration of 120,- 000 would vote.

Much of the early voting was by persons starting for work but in many cases housewives accompanied their husbands to increase the numbers at the polling places.
Some confusion was reported in the first hours, due to the fact that this was the first election under the new permanent registration law in St. Louis County but no serious difficulties were reported to the Election Board office at Clayton.

As required under the new law, each voter signed his name on a list for comparison with the signature given at the time of registration. This slowed the procedure somewhat, but the custom generally followed was to give the voter his ballots and check his signature while he marked the ballots in the voting booth.

Voting particularly heavy in the thickly populated suburban districts. At 11:30 a. m. officials for Winata Precinct No. 61, with polling place at 8200 Page avenue, reported that 450 persons, or nearly 58 per cent of the registration of 780, had voted.

The heavy early morning balloting was exemplified at the Courthouse polling place in Clayton, where 96 ballots of a registration of 632 had been cast by 8 o'clock. At another Clayton precinct 121 votes had been cast by 7:45.

In several Webster Groves precincts about 100 votes had been cast by 8 o'clock, with precinct re-registrations averaging from 500 to 600.

In addition to candidates for national and state offices, county voters also were to select 11 county officials, three State Representatives and Justices of the Peace and Constables for the seven townships.

County officials to be elected are:
Two Circuit Judges, Sheriff, Prosecuting Attorney, County Judge (one from each of two districts), Assessor, Coroner, Surveyor, Public Administrator and Treasurer.

2400 VOTES BY 1:30 P. M.
AT ST. CHARLES, A RECORD
Registration is 6388; Heaviest Ballotting Expected When Factories End Day.

About 2400 votes had been cast in St. Charles by 1:30 p. m., the largest number ever recorded at that hour. Total registration in the city is 6388 and the registration elsewhere in St. Charles County is also about 6000. Election Board officials anticipate a record vote.

The polls opened at 6 a. m. and will close at 7 p. m., with the heaviest voting expected after 4 p. m.
when industrial employees finish their day's work.

The Republicans in the primary polled about 500 more votes than the Democrats. But in 1932 the Republicans polled 900 more votes than the Democrats in the primary and still lost the county by 1550 votes.

COUNTY SUPERVISOR ACCUSED
L. W. Quick of St. Clair County Gives Bond on Assault Charge.
Leo W. Quick of East St. Louis, a member of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, who was charged with criminal assault on an East St. Louis woman in a warrant issued yesterday, appeared before Justice of the Peace Louis E.
Wanglin of Belleville today, and furnished $1500 bond. He said there was "nothing to the charge."

The warrant was issued on complaint of a woman who said Quick assaulted her in his automobile last Thursday.

HEAVY EARLY VOTE IN EAST ST. LOUIS

25,000 of 42,000 Registered by Noon — 18,800 Voted at Belleville by 1 P. M.

A heavy early vote was reported today in East St. Louis, Belleville, and rural precincts of St. Clair County. Thomas F. Connon, chief clerk of the East St. Louis Election Board, said that 25,000 votes had been cast in the city's 84 precincts before noon.

The East St. Louis registration is 42,630.
A check of five polling places in different parts of the city showed the following vote cast before 1
p. m.: 5701 State street, 287 of 491 registered; 700 Ohio avenue, 309 out of 517; 3027 Waverly avenue, 263 out of 455; 1120 Tudor avenue, 274 out of 488; 4201 State street, 308 out of 567.

County Clerk D. A. Prindle of Belleville estimated that nearly half of the 18,846 registered voters in the 29 city precincts had visited the polling places before 1 p. m.

Outside of Belleville and East St.
Louis the registration is 35,690 in 62 rural precincts, making the total for the entire county 97,166, a record.

Prindle estimated that 82,500 votes would be cast in today's election as compared with 74,013 in the presidential election of 1932. In rural precincts the voting was somewhat slower than in the city precincts. No disturbances were reported to the Sheriff's office in Belleville.

WARRANT ISSUED AGAINST MAN HELD IN MAIL EXTORTION PLOT

Venice (Ill.) Negro Admits He Threatened Wife of East St.
Louis Bank Teller.

John A. McGhee, Venice (Ill.) Negro, was charged with using the mails in an attempt to extort money, in a warrant issued yesterday by United States Commissioner Arthur Felsen in East St. Louis. He admitted to police and Federal agents that he wrote a threatening letter demanding $200 to Mrs. Earl A. Guyton of East St. Louis, wife of a bank teller.

McGhee was held in the city jail of East St. Louis today, unable to post bond which was fixed at $200.
He is charged with violation of the Cochran Act, which provides a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

He was arrested Sunday when officers waited near the roundhouse of the Alton Railroad Co. at a spot to which Mrs. Guyton had been directed in the note, received Friday, to take $200. McGhee appeared on the scene, but did not attempt to pick up a dummy package which had been placed as directed.

After his arrest McGhee said he selected Mrs. Guyton as his intended victim after seeing her name in a newspaper society column. She resides at 1421 North Forty-third street.

Tennison's Nurse Dies at 88.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—Sister Emma Durham, 88 years old, who nursed Alfred Lord Tennison, the English poet laureate, through serious illness, died today. It was at her request, according to friends, that Tennison wrote "Crossing the Bar" in 1889.

COL. A. T. PERKINS GOES TO POLL ON STRETCHER

Father-in-Law of Maj. Lloyd
C. Stark Votes Straight Republican Ticket.

Col. Albert T. Perkins, former general manager of the United Railways Co. and later head of the People's Motorbus Co., was taken on a stretcher and in an ambulance early today from St. Luke's Hospital to a Clayton polling place, to vote the straight Republican ticket.

In so doing, he voted against his son-in-law, Maj. Lloyd C. Stark, Democratic nominee for Governor.
Col. Perkins, who is 71 years old, underwent an operation for a kidney ailment Oct. 24, and another operation is still to be performed.

In the last few days, he had told his physician and nurses that he intended to cast his vote, but they, while not arguing the matter with him, did not take the idea seriously. Last night and today they found him so determined that the necessary arrangements were made.

The departure from the hospital was made at 7:25 a. m., a nurse accompanying Col. Perkins, who lay on a stretcher during the ride to the polling place, in the First Congregational Church Building at Wydown boulevard and University lane.

He was wheeled into the voting room, and, still lying on the stretcher, performed the simple task of marking an X on his ballot.

Before his present illness, Col.
Perkins told friends that he intended to vote the Republican ticket, including Jesse W. Barrett, nominee for Governor, and that he would not vote for his son-in-law or other Democratic state candidates, because of the relation of T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City boss, to the state Democracy.

EARLY HEARING PROBABLE IN LACY DISBARMENT SUIT

Accused Lawyer Declares He Will Waive Service and Enter Appearance in Court.

An early hearing of the disbarment suit against Verne R. C. Lacy, specialist in criminal law, was indicated today when Lacy said he would waive service and enter his appearance in order to obtain a prompt setting.

The petition, filed in St. Louis Court of Appeals yesterday by the Missouri Supreme Court's Bar Disciplinary Committee of St. Louis, charges Lacy with professional misconduct in withholding more than $10,000 from a decedent's estate and in seeking to corrupt a juror in a criminal case.

Lacy may file a demurrer to the petition or a general denial of the charges. If the demurrer is overruled and the issues are joined, the court probably will appoint a special commissioner to hear the evidence and submit his report to the court for approval or rejection.

WPA WRITERS' HEAD CHARGES SABOTAGE

Says Ozark Copy, Rejected by Springfield Chamber, Also Was Poorly Written.

The copy about the Ozarks prepared by a WPA worker at Springfield and indignantly rejected yesterday by the Springfield Chamber of Commerce as "incompetently written and giving an entirely wrong idea," was presented to the civic organization yesterday with authorization in an attempt "to sabotage
the Ozarks guide project, Mrs.
Geraldine Parker, director of the project, declared here today.

Mrs. Parker, director of the writers preparing the Ozarks and State guides, charged that the writer, stationed at Springfield, did not let her see the copy presented to the Chamber of Commerce, but sent it in directly to the civic organization, then returned to St.
Louis and joined other members of the St. Louis Writers' Union in a strike begun last week. Earlier copy for the guide had been submitted to her before being transmitted to the Chamber of Commerce, she said.

"It appears that this copy was submitted to the committee of the Chamber of Commerce in deliberate attempt to discredit the project," she said.

In addition to condemning the copy, which termed the Ozarks
"hostile to bandits" and the people as "isolated, with little respect for any sort of law," the Chamber of Commerce withdrew its $333.33 appropriation for completion of the job. Similar contributions have been made by the City of Springfield and the County Court of Greene County.

Mrs. Parker said she had talked with the Ozarks writer, W. T.
Woodruff, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee which had complained about the copy, and had explained the circumstances under which it was prepared and submitted. She told him that the objectionable material, which she had not seen, was not to be included in the books. Previous installments of copy have been satisfactory. It was understood that, under the circumstances, the Chamber of Commerce would reconsider its action.

The Ozarks guide is to be a 125-page volume, separate from the State and national guides, on which the Writers' Project also is working.

FR. COUGHLIN SAYS ROOSEVELT 'MAY WIN BUT WE'LL GO ON'

Winds Up His Campaigning With Two Radio Speeches on Election Eve.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The Rev.
Charles E. Coughlin closed his campaigning last night with an assertion that the New Deal leads "to Communism and dictatorship."
In his second radio address, he addressed his audience by saying "Roosevelt may win, Roosevelt may win, Roosevelt may win, the Constitution of the nation, he may brag about becoming the master of America, as he did at Madison Square Garden, forgetting the Lincoln attitude, the Washington attitude, and the attitude of every President before him that the President is the servant of the people, but we of the National Union for Social Justice will go on fighting."

In his earlier broadcast, Coughlin
read a telegram from his bishop, Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit, saying that he had no intention of "interfering" with the priest's radio activities after the election.
Reports that he would do so, the bishop said, were "unfounded."

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Possibility that financial markets in London

flect financial reactions of Americans to the outcome of the presidential race appeared as many stock exchange firms planned all-night service to permit transmission of orders to Europe.

$50,000 STORM LOSS IN CAPE GIRARDEAU

Tornado Damages 150 Buildings Over Area Half a Mile Wide.

By the Associated Press.
CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Nov. 3.— A tornado shortly before last midnight damaged 150 homes and store buildings here, causing a loss estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000.

A woman, who was struck by flying timber when she was seated in an automobile, was the only person reported injured.

The storm came from the southwest, passed through a section one-half mile wide and one and one-half miles long before it lifted to cross the Mississippi River.

The southwestern residential section and the Good Hope street business district suffered chiefly from the violence of the winds, which missed the main business area by only a few blocks.

A torrential rain followed the storm, driving some families from their wind-damaged homes. Plate glass windows were smashed in stores and merchandise scattered for several blocks.

The roof of a grocery store was hurled against light and telephone cables, where it hung suspended over the street.

More than 200 trees were blown down, carrying with them wires that put the city's street lighting system out of commission. There was less serious disruption of residential lighting and telephone service.

A national guard company was called on duty to aid police in patrolling the streets and standing guard over felled electric cables.
Emergency crews were at work this morning to restore the services.

The tornado had little effect on the voting today. Twenty-two hundred ballots were cast in the first four hours with about 9000 eligible to participate in the election.

KING REVIVES STUART OFFICE

Makes Sir Bindon Blood Chief of Royal Engineers at 93.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Reviving a Stuart office which was abolished in 1802, King Edward has appointed Sir Bindon Blood, 93, to the post of chief of the Royal Corps of Engineers. It will be part of Sir Bindon's duty to tend the coronation next May. Col. Blood was paroled by Charles II after the restoration and later became a close friend of that monarch. Sir Bindon, who is 93 years old, retired from active service with the British army in 1907. When informed of his new appointment he remarked: "I was too old to go to France when I was 72 at the outbreak of war, but I am glad that I can be of service to my country
now that I am nearly 94."

MOTHER OF FIVE HIT BY STREET CAR, KILLED

Mrs. Eunice Willett Crossing Tracks When Struck by Creve Coeur Trolley.

Mrs. Eunice Willett, 41-year-old mother of five children, was fatally injured when she was struck by a Creve Coeur street car as she crossed the tracks in front of her home at 1:10 p. m. today.

She died 10 minutes later, shortly after she was taken to County Hospital by a motorist.

She was the wife of Edgar E.
Willett, proprietor of a filling station. Her children ranged from 5 to 13 years in age.

A woman who was struck and injured seriously by a street car at Trinity avenue and the University street car tracks, in University City, last night, was identified at County Hospital today as Miss Evelyn Bareis, 22 years old, an employee of a cleaning establishment, residing at 4024 Lindell boulevard.

She suffered fractures of the skull and leg, and is unconscious.
Identification was made by her cousin, Miss Pearl Bischoff, 6900 Waterman avenue, University City, whom she visited last night.

GANG MURDER IN MAY IS STILL UNSOLVED

Five Months Have Passed
Since Charles Maginness, Gambler Was Killed.

More than five months after the gang execution of Charles Maginness, gambler and former convict, which took place the night of May 28, the police have no one under arrest, and have made no apparent progress in the search for the murderers.

The police version of the matter continues to be that the investigation of the Maginness case is not closed. The same statement is regularly made about all unsolved murder cases, which are considered not closed until they are solved.

Maginness was one of a group of gamblers who made plans, in May,
for opening gambling places in St.
Charles, to operate for a time after the bonus payoff of World War veterans, June 15. He was associated with Sylvester (Babe) Baldwin and Tony Foley in plans for an establishment in St. Charles to be known as the "400 Bar."

Late on the night of May 28, just after he had returned from St.
Charles, he was shot seven times, while in an alley near the rear of his home, 3917 North Euclid avenue. He was not robbed of $13, which he carried. Although conscious for a time, he refused to tell the police anything that might point to his murderers. This action was in accord with traditional gang ethics, the theory being that gangsters, or their survivors, settle their own scores without aid from "the law."

Rivalries of gambling operators, in the area outside St. Louis and St. Louis County, were thought to be the cause of the crime, which was of the formerly familiar gang killing type. The gamblers near St.
Louis operated chiefly in St.
Charles and in Jefferson County, south of St. Louis County.

Gang killings have been rare in St. Louis in recent years, since the breaking up of local gangs by the police.

CALIFORNIA LETTUCE WORKERS END STRIKE

Vote 613 to 342 to Retain Work, After Walkout Ending Two Months.

By the Associated Press. SALINAS, Cal., Nov. 3. — Strike of lettuce workers was by a vote of union workers today. The strike lasted months.

The vote by members of the United Farm Workers' Union at Watsonville was 613 to 342 to retain the strike against the A. S. Doss, financial secretary of the union, said the terms of the new contract were similar in part to those of two weeks ago by Edward J. Doss, secretary of the California Federation of Labor. The new contract, for which the strike, is not considered.

Under the terms accepted by the union, the employers may not hire any of the strikers who are presently employed by the union.

Letting packing continued by the strike at the Salinas packing plant, which some 3200 union men walked out. Their principal demand was for union preference.

Several outbreaks in which highway patrolmen and deputes drove back with tear gas, occurred during the strike.

Vote 613 to 342 to Return to Work, After Walkout Lasting Two Months.

By the Associated Press.
SALINAS, Cal., Nov. 3. — The strike of lettuce workers was ended by a vote of union workers early today. The strike lasted two months.

The vote by members of the Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Union here at Watsonville was 613 for returning to work immediately and 342 against.

A. S. Doss, financial secretary of the union, said the terms would be similar in part to those outlined last week by Edward Vandenberg, secretary of the California State Federation of Labor. Preferential hiring, for which the union struck, is not considered.

Under the terms accepted by the strikers, the employers may reserve the right to keep any of their non-union help presently employed; strikers will hire as many union members as possible, and may re-employ any persons regarded as "troublemakers."

The wage scale in operation for the last two years—75 cents an hour for packers and 55 cents for trimmers—presumably will remain in effect.

Lettuce packing continued during the strike at barricaded sheds, from which some 3200 union workers walked out. Their principal demand was for union preference in hiring.

Several outbreaks in which police, highway patrolmen and special deputies drove back pickets with tear gas, occurred during the strike.

Roosevelt Victory Expected By Most Political Experts

do the party work, regardless of the presidency, virtually every other group in the Democratic camp has been looking to 1940 and beyond. They joined with the bosses in getting the voters registered and in demanding pledge cards that the voters would support the Democratic ticket. Senator La Follette, John L. Lewis, Sidney Hillman, Louis Waldman and others of the "liberals" together with the Communists are looking for a definite cleavage of classes in 1940 and are preparing their own organizations accordingly.

Republican leaders insist that the greatly increased registration this year is evidence of a "protest" vote against the New Deal. This may be true in part, but the evidence is overwhelming that the Democratic bosses and their new allies saw to it that even the lame, the halt and the blind got their names on the registration lists and had their instructions to vote for Roosevelt.

This latter group, of course, would not be for the New Deal if they were not convinced that Roosevelt had improved their lot during the past three and a half years. Most of them are better off than they were in 1932, and this is especially true of the Negro voters who probably hold the balance of power in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and perhaps New York. WPA workers and relief beneficiaries, despite isolated instances to the contrary, are expected to vote overwhelmingly for a continuation of the New Deal.

Hopes of Scare Campaign.
Republican leaders who predict that the "protest" vote of the well-to-do classes will decide the election are basing their calculations on the scare campaign devised by the Chicago G. O. P. headquarters. Typical items were Col. Knox's assertion that no life insurance policy is safe under the New Deal; Gov. Landon's repeated promises to balance the budget; the Reed-Smith assertions that the New Deal is Communist; and the last-minute wage envelope propaganda against the Social Security Act.

If a "psychological swing" away from Roosevelt has been developed sufficiently to assure his defeat, it is not evident on this election day. As viewed by a high ranking Democratic politician of the realistic school, the G. O. P. charges were bound to fail because of bad timing. According to this expert, the Communism attack came three weeks too early and permitted rebuttal by the Democrats; the attack on the Social Security Act was a week too early, and gave labor leaders time to explain to their followers that the law was for their benefit and that the employers were trying to get the workers to fight the employers' battles. In these days of rapid communication, Roosevelt was able to talk to the whole country by radio as soon as this propaganda became alarming.

If They Had Waited.

"If they had saved those attacks until the last 10 days of the campaign," the practical politician said, "it would have been almost impossible to get out replies to all the voters. As it is, we think we have that propaganda stopped."

In their enthusiasm for the "psychological swing" and partly because of the lack of state machinery, the Republican high command was unable to follow Pendergast's advice on getting the voters registered and then seeing that the voters went to the polls. Tons of literature were sent out of the Chicago and New York headquarters and the organization officials could show elaborate maps with pins in every county to denote local organizations, but unbiased political observers traveling throughout the country were uniformly surprised at the lack of local Republican organizations, the down-to-the-precinct doorbell-ringing type.

The Republican Chicago headquarters told the writer that it was preparing for 1940 and expected to keep an organization going regardless of the outcome of today's election. The Democratic machine has kept functioning for Roosevelt since 1928, when Farley took it over, and if Roosevelt gets the huge vote the experts predict, he can thank the Democratic chairman for no small part of it.

EX-CONVICT SHOT TO DEATH

AFTER HE WOUNDS SHERIFF

Man Sought for Six Months Meets Officer Unexpectedly Near Ohio, Mo.

OSCEOLA, Mo., Nov. 3.—Arnold Knight, 26 years old, an ex-convict, was shot and killed, and Sheriff R. L. Calvird, seriously wounded yesterday when they met unexpectedly on a road near Ohio, Mo.

Sheriff Calvird, who had been seeking to serve warrants on Knight for six months, was shot in the face with a charge of buckshot. Knight was killed by "Lefty" Ireland, who was helping the Sheriff deliver ballots.

Lee E. Crooks, Prosecuting Attorney of St. Clair County, said Sheriff Calvird and Ireland were attempting to remove an automobile from a mud hole when Knight and Homer Shoemaker went by in a truck.

Crooks quoted Ireland as saying Knight told the Sheriff, "I'm going to kill you," and stepped from the truck with a shotgun. Ireland said he reached for the Sheriff's riot gun and shot Knight.

Knight had served a term in the State penitentiary for felonious assault. Warrants on which the Sheriff was seeking him, Crooks said, charged him with felonious assault and shooting livestock.

1,000,000 VOTES INDICATED IN CHICAGO BEFORE 11 A. M.

Balloting Is Heavy Despite Brisk Winter Weather and Threatening Skies.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Reports of unprecedented balloting in Chicago reached the City Hall today, with a check of one precinct in each of the 50 wards indicating 1,043,316 votes had been cast by 11 a. m.

The early vote, despite brisk winter weather and threatening skies, was estimated at two-thirds of Chicago's registration of 1,769,656.

Heavy voting in several downstate cities was reported early. The permanent registration law was having its test in Chicago and nine downstate cities. Some confusion resulted here from missing cards.

Southern Illinois counties reported new records in prospect. A heavy rainfall last night threatened to cut the vote in the rural districts of some counties.

ROOSEVELT ENDS CAMPAIGN WITH ADVICE TO VOTERS

In National Broadcast From Hyde Park Home He Says All Are Equal in Polling Place.

ASSERTS DICTATOR CAN'T THRIVE IN U. S.

Declares Only Rule Americans Have Ever Had to Put Up With Is That of Majority.

By the Associated Press.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt closed his campaign last night with a radio address from his home here, in which he said he had no fear either of the threats of demagogues or the ambitions of dictators.

"Neither can get far nor long thrive among a people who have learned to think for themselves and who have the courage to act as they think," he asserted.

He added that "we are all equals" at the polling booth, and continued:

"No one will fire you because you vote contrary to his wishes or instructions. No one will know how you vote. And don't let anyone intimidate you or coerce you by telling you otherwise."

"Rule of the Majority."

Americans have had to put up with a good many things in the course of history, he continued, "but the only rule we have ever put up with is the rule of the majority. That is the only rule we ever will put up with."

Earlier, in an informal address to several thousand Poughkeepsie neighbors massed in Market street below his hotel balcony, the President said a millennium or Utopia could not be reached in four or eight years, but at least the people in responsible positions "ought to start the ball rolling in a perfectly normal, sane, sensible way" to provide security for the people.

"I was thinking this afternoon," the President began, "about the first political speech I made in this city way back in 1910, and it was a terrible speech. And I decided not long after 1910 not to make another political speech in Poughkeepsie for the very good reason that everybody knows me."

"In spite of all that has been said, I'm not going to make a political speech tonight. I'm just going to tell you a few things on my chest. I have visited a great many states and I've never seen a campaign in 25 years where I could feel inside of me how the people were taking such an intelligent interest in national affairs."

"People in all sections," he said, have begun to "study the future of America."

Two Causes Back of It. Back of it all there have been two causes, he added, the first to "retain our American form of government—the Democratic system—the representative system of Government, and the other thing I carried away with me is, the people want progress."

"The time has come," he said, "to accomplish more things for the average citizen. People in the past have gone along with the idea that we could do without certain things, such as security. . . . We've had to take our chance with depression."

How Insurgent Army Captured Brunete in Two-Way Attack

Meeting of Columns at Town, After Long Gains Are Made Against Apparently Impossible Odds.

By JOHN T. WHITAKER. Copyright, 1936, New York Tribune, Inc. NAVALCARNERO, Spain, Nov. 3.—(Delayed.)—Racing against the arrival of more Soviet planes, tanks and artillery for the loyalists, the rebels took up the offensive again today and drove forward to Brunete, only 16 miles southwest of Madrid. The taking of the capital is imminent if this operation of major strategic importance enables Gen. Jose Varela, rebel commander, to strike out promptly from Navalcarnero toward Mostoles and from Illescas to Getafe.

Should the Government forces come back with heavy counter-attacks and push their salient around El Escorial, the war may drag on. If not, the insurgents have started toward Madrid once more and should gain their goal.

Towns like Brunete are dots on the map to the tourist, but to the contending armies they represent vital squares in a giant chess game. For this reason both forces felt that Brunete was worth all the dead who lie tonight along the roads east from Chapineria and north from Navalcarnero.

Col. Antonio Castellan's column advanced from Chapineria, fighting something, which I have always thought we should lose. We lost control of America. We are doing much better in a business way than we did four years ago; but if the New Deal is completed and all Americans are guaranteed the right to work and to buy abundantly we business men cannot be their bosses any longer. To succeed under the New Deal we must become their servants.

"Now, we need not get angry because some business leaders are not yet ready to accept any such great change as this. All we need to do, when we vote tomorrow is to say whether we are ready for it. Do we want business to become our servant? Or do we want it to become our master once more?"

"That is why, on the eve of perhaps the most momentous election in our history, I haven't said a word about party politics. Nine out of 10 of us, at least, want what the New Deal, under President Roosevelt's great leadership, has brought us; and if we haven't lost our heads as the special interests have hoped by now we would, nine out of 10 of us will vote for President Roosevelt's re-election—not as Republicans and Democrats, but as friends and fellow-citizens of one united nation."

"The very people who are proposing to wreck your social security," he asserted, "are the backers and supporters of Mr. Landon. He is already tied hand and foot by the company he is keeping. No man with even a shred of honor or sense of duty could stand on the shoulders of the Bourbons without being prepared to do their bidding."

Mr. Landon has not uttered a word of condemnation of the foul and fraudulent pay envelope campaign. His own record as Governor of Kansas and his own public statements in this campaign mark him as seeing eye-to-eye with these mouthpieces of reaction."

Farley's Comment. Farley, also speaking from New York, predicted an overwhelming victory for President Roosevelt and thanked those who have taken part in the President's campaign, calling them "patriotic soldiers in a conquering army."

"This has been a hard-fought campaign," he said. "It has ended with shrill cries of hate and bitterness from our opponents. I regret that they were unable to restrain the walls of the loser. The last-minute misrepresentations only do them harm and the country as a whole no good."

"I am just as sure of what tomorrow's election will bring forth as I was four years ago. Our country will reaffirm their confidence in our great leaders even more emphatically than was the case in 1932."

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 3.—United States District Judge Carroll C. Hincks imposed sentences totaling 47 years and 11 months yesterday on 13 men and women who had pleaded guilty to violations of the Mann Act.

The prosecution followed a Government investigation of a white slave ring.

The judge fined a husband and wife, who the Government charged made a small fortune through vice traffic. The fines totaled $65,000.

In imposing the fines, Judge Hincks said he was determined none of the defendants should have an opportunity "to enjoy the profits of their shameful business" on their release from the penitentiary.

In all of the other cases, Assistant District Attorney George H. Cohen said, the Government was unable to find any cash or property which might be levied upon.

The sentences on the separate counts of the indictments actually totaled 261 years and two months, but Judge Hincks so grouped them to run concurrently in each case that the defendants will serve only a total of 47 years and 11 months.

The man and wife on whom the fines were levied are Arturo and Adelina Pasquini, who, Cohen said, ran a resort in Wallingford, "long known as the worst in Connecticut."

The heaviest penitentiary sentence, 13 years, was imposed on Joseph "Waterbury Joe" Ferruccio, member of a "strong arm squad" which exacted $20 a week tribute from some resorts in the syndicate.

HIS playmates say so—respectfully; they refer to his body, not his character; they say he can "take it." And he can.

There are several reasons. One is that Johnny's mother always sees to it that he gets plenty of pure, safe, wholesome St. Louis Dairy Milk.

But, strangely enough, Johnny's Dad can't "take it." Long before his day's work is done, he's tired. He's susceptible to colds, frequently misses work during the winter—a few days at a time—and is often at work when he should be in bed. He's the bread-winner of the family, yet neglects a simple rule of health: So long as you need energy, you need milk!

Inquiry Turns to Brogan's Third Ward; Grand Jury
in Session Today.

A no-true bill was voted by the grand jury yesterday after it had completed its investigation of August primary election returns in the Nineteenth Precinct of the Eleventh Ward. This means that the grand jury found no evidence on which to base indictments.

The precinct did not have the long-ago returns which characterized the other nine investigated earlier, but it is understood that the grand jury desired to look into a precinct in the home ward of Chairman Fred Pape of the Republican City Committee, who represents the Eleventh Ward. Previously it had investigated the Twenty-first Precinct of the Twenty-first Ward, home ward of Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and voted indictments there.

Officials in charge of the Nineteenth Precinct of the Eleventh Ward, according to Election Board records, were: Edwin Brown, 3515A Alberta street, and L. P. Degnan, 2408 McKean avenue, Democratic judges; Edward J. Schenk, 3424A Chippewa street, and John D. Els, 3412 Montana street, Republican judges; William B. Dickman, 3469 Montana street, Democratic clerk, and Henry A. Rollstad, 3411 Montana street, Republican clerk.

Inquiry Into Ward 3, Pct. 4.
For investigation today the grand jury chose the Fourth Precinct of State Senator Joseph Brogan's Third Ward and obtained a subpoena for its ballot box and other records of the primary election vote.

Officials of the precinct in the primary, according to Election Board records, were: Joe Brannan, 1511 Palm street, and Charles King, 3110A North Thirteenth street, Democratic judges; Charles Thomas Bartsch, 1406 Hart street, and Millard W. Helmolt, 2919 North Thirteenth street, Republican judges; Julius Laurent, 1314 Hebert, Democratic clerk, and Harold Wagener, 814 Montgomery street, Republican clerk.

This precinct, which had its polling place at 1415 Hebert street, was another in which the returns were long-ago. Brogan scored a 210 to 0 shut-out there over Howard Quinn, his opponent for the Democratic nomination for State Senator. The Democratic ballots were divided 200 to 10 in the contest for nomination as Coroner; and 208-1-1 among three candidates for nomination as Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction. Five candidates for nomination as Circuit Judge got from 206 to 210 votes each; one got 97; three got none; and the highest vote recorded for any of the other 15 candidates was 7.

Brogan and Mrs. Kate Spahr were re-elected members of the Democratic City Committee for the ward without opposition. Thomas E. Neister and Mrs. Dora Luetkenholder were re-elected members of the Republican City Committee, defeating Edwin Richter and Mildred Saterger.

Jury in Session Until 7.

The grand jury convened this morning at 10 o'clock and will remain in session until the polls close at 7 o'clock tonight. While conducting its investigation of the fourth precinct of the Third Ward it will be ready to hear any complaints of irregularities which may occur at the polls today.

So far the grand jury has completed investigation of the returns of 10 precincts. Indictments have been voted against all the election judges and clerks who served in eight of those precincts. Two other persons, charged with inducing the judges and clerks to commit fraud, have been indicted, making the total named in the indictments 50. Two no-true bills were voted.

L. C. C. APPROVES PAY RISE

Consents to $5000 a Year More for Guy A. Thompson.
The Interstate Commerce Commission filed with the Federal Reserve yesterday its consent to a $5000 a year increase in the salary of Guy A. Thompson as trustee of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad. The increase, if ordered by the Court, would increase Thompson's compensation to $30,000 a year. Thompson applied last September for an L. C. C. order modifying the one it made in August, 1933, which fixed his maximum compensation at $25,000 a year. The L. C. C. found that conditions had changed since then and consented to the increase to be made effective as of Oct. 1.

STANDARD OIL DIVIDEND ACTION REGISTRATION IN KANSAS CITY

Postponed by "Complex Situation Created by New Tax Laws."

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana announced yesterday that action on the Dec. 15 dividend has been postponed.

Edward B. Seibert, president, said: "Because of the complex situation created by new tax laws and the necessity of having to estimate earnings for the last three months of the year, much work has been entailed in preparation for action regarding the dividend. Sufficient information was not at hand upon which to base a decision, but it is thought likely that an announcement can be made toward the end of the week."

Total Given by Board as 268,000, a Record.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—The Kansas City Board of Election Commissioners announced yesterday the city's registration was 268,000, a record. Registration in 1932 was 238,501.

The number of eligible voters will be increased somewhat by last-minute orders obtained in Circuit Court. About 10,000 names have been added by court order since the registration in September. About 2000 names were struck off in the election board's regular canvass and another 3000 names were struck off by sustaining of challenges.

STATE MOVE TO END CAHOKIA POLLUTION

East St. Louis Requested to Divert Sewage From Old Creek Bed.

The city of East St. Louis was requested in a letter from the Illinois Sanitary Water Board to cease polluting old Cahokia Creek south of the new diversion canal with discharge from three municipal sewers, Clarence W. Klassen, technical secretary of the board, told the Post-Dispatch yesterday by telephone.

Klassen said the board made the request as a result of complaints made by persons from East St. Louis, and was acting under authority of the Sanitary Water Board laws enacted in 1929, forbidding pollution of streams. The creek has been declared a natural water course by the Illinois Division of Waterways.

John T. Connors, vice-mayor, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had received no such request yet, and would take no action until he had. The request follows a survey made last Thursday by engineers of the Illinois Division of Waterways, who found the old creek blocked by fills made at five points under treaties of the Terminal Railroad, leaving sewage to accumulate to a depth of several feet for want of an outlet.

Col. Walter M. Smith, Chief Engineer of the Waterways Division, during the survey was informed by East St. Louis City Engineers that the old creek still receives the flow of nine sanitary sewers and seven storm water sewers. Three are city sewers, six are from the Big Four Railroad roundhouse, and four are from the workshops of the Terminal Railroad north of the Relay depot. The largest leads from the North American Provision Co. discharging sewage at Bogard avenue. Just south of this point the creek is blocked by a Terminal fill, causing sewage to accumulate.

Klassen said the board had taken no action yet toward ordering the other sources of pollution closed. He said the request was made of the city first because its sewers had gates that could be closed, diverting the flow to other pipes.

The question of jurisdiction over the old creek bed is in dispute between the city and the Levee Board, each body contending the other is responsible for having the bed filled in. The Democratic Levee Board, up for re-election, is being attacked by Republican opponents for "wasting" $2,632,000 for constructing the diversion canal, without eliminating the old creek. The Levee Board disputes that responsibility for having the old creek bed filled in lies with the city, which is predominantly Republican.

COMMUNIST SPEECH BLOCKED

Wires Cut Just Before Nominee Appeared at San Bernardino, Cal.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Nov. 3.—Charles McLaughlin, Communist candidate for Congress from the Nineteenth California District, failed last night for a third time in efforts to broadcast a speech over a local radio station. Main power transmission wires to the station were cut shortly before the time for him to go on the air.

A crowd jammed the hotel in which radio station KFXM is situated and the nearby street. McLaughlin had entered the radio station two hours before the time for the broadcast and companions on the inside bolted the doors.

DENTIST IN NEAR EAST HAS 7000 PATIENTS

Dr. M. Don Clawson Treats Oil Company Employees Over Wide Area

Dr. M. Don Clawson, who ministers to the dental needs of 7000 Arabs and Europeans in Syria, Palestine, Transjordan, Iraq and Lebanon, is in St. Louis on a visit. He expects to sail for Beirut Nov. 24.

Traveling in a motorized dental clinic which he designed, Dr. Clawson covers a territory of 1500 miles, visiting the employees of the Iraq Petroleum Co., controlled by American, British, French and Dutch interests. Since the workers cannot leave their jobs to come to him, he must go to them.

Originally he went to the Far East to teach in the American University at Beirut, he told a Post-Dispatch reporter today. Knowing that Dr. Clawson was interested in foreign work, the dean of the Washington University dental school had recommended him for the job.

Hired by Oil Concern. After teaching in the university for four years, he was hired by the oil concern to take care of the dental needs of their workers. He soon found that his 6000 Arab patients took only 15 per cent of his time, but the 1000 European patients took 85 per cent of his time.

"The Bedouin Arabs live on a meager but well-balanced diet, which is 80 per cent camel's milk," Dr. Clawson said. "When they begin working for the oil company that diet is insufficient. Therefore, meats, rice and other foods are added to their meals. Within four or five years, their perfect teeth develop cavities."

Not all of his patients can be visited in the truck and trailer, Dr. Clawson related. Four airplanes are used in getting to the outlying areas. One plane crashed while the dentist was on an emergency call but he was only slightly hurt.

Works Mostly at Night. Because of the 120-degree heat at mid-day most of the dental work is done at night. When not looking after his patients, Dr. Clawson and his two assistants accompany geologic expeditions. At that time they examine the teeth of nomadic tribesmen to collect data for a survey.

Because his Bedouin drivers can tell hard sand from soft, the motorized clinic rarely gets stuck. Sometimes Mrs. Clawson and their 5-year-old daughter, Carolyn, accompany the caravan.

Dr. Clawson also lectures at the American University and the University of St. Joseph at Beirut and the Syrian University at Damascus. During his stay here, Dr. Clawson visited Dr. Lloyd B. Wright, his former office associate. Mrs. Clawson and her daughter will be guests at the home of her parents in Flora, Ill., over the winter.

WOMAN LOSES $10,000 SUIT FOR DAMAGES FROM DENTIST

She Alleged He Caused Her to Be Taken in Custody on Extortion Charge.

The $10,000 damage suit of Mrs. C. F. Schneider, 5475 Cabanis avenue, against R. S. Bettis, dentist, with offices in the Chemical Building, was decided in his favor yesterday by the verdict of a jury in Circuit Judge Frank C. O'Malley's court.

Mrs. Schneider alleged that on March 24, 1934, Bettis caused police to take her in custody on a charge of extortion when she demanded that he comply with a promise to pay her expenses to receive treatment from another specialist. She said Bettis had treated her several years for an ailment which he diagnosed as pyorrhea but which she later learned from another doctor was an improper diagnosis. She said Bettis admitted he was mistaken.

Bettis denied he had improperly diagnosed Mrs. Schneider's ailment or had made any admission he was wrong. He also denied he had caused her arrest, explaining she created a disturbance in his office and police were summoned to quiet her.

In her petition Mrs. Schneider described her ailment as an infection of the jaw bone, for the payment of which, she said, she paid Bettis $235. She declared she was humiliated by her arrest. Max Sigeloff, attorney for Bettis, contended that the defendant acted within his rights in the matter and therefore was not liable on the false arrest claim. Trial of the case consumed five days.

VOTERS GO TO POLLS IN BOATS

Rain Floods Roads in Part of Benton County, Missouri.

WARSAW, Mo., Nov. 3.—Voters in the southern part of Benton County went to the polls in boats today.

The Pomme de Terre arm of the Lake of the Ozarks at Fairfield, and Deer Creek near Edwards were torrents after a six-inch rain yesterday. Many roads leading to polling places in Alexander and Union townships were inundated. Boats were provided by Republican and Democratic workers. The banks of the streams were lined with voters waiting their turn to be ferried to the polls.

GERMANY BUILDS CONCRETE FORTS AROUND BORDERS

Ten Gun Bases Started at Helgoland—Marine Harbor Destroyed by Allies Being Restored.

CAMERAS BARRED IN THOSE AREAS

Public Told That Foreign Spies Are Everywhere, Seeking Data for Use Against Fatherland.

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Lines of concrete fortification and artillery emplacements are rising around Germany's borders today.

Ten gun bases have been started on Helgoland Island, off the Schleswig coast, while construction of other forts along the western and southeastern frontiers is under way. In addition, the Helgoland marine harbor, destroyed by the allies after the World War, is being rebuilt.

Most of the Helgoland defense bases are on top of the rocky island point where four large emplacements have been built and guns already moved into place. Six smaller gun positions are under construction in other sections.

No Cameras Allowed.

Island tourists are still permitted to explore the old part of the town and the outer edges of the rock, but defense officials have prohibited visitors from making photographs or sketches. Guards are stationed throughout the zone and one road leading to the center of the island is blocked to the public.

Barracks for defense forces have been constructed and residents around the island's largest light-house are being evacuated to make way for additional military and naval construction.

The work of fortifying the other borders of the Reich has proceeded under attempted secrecy, particularly along the French and German frontiers on the west and the Czechoslovakian frontier on the southeast.

The Rhineland and Black Forest defenses have been described in official statements as disconnected "pill-box" strongholds opposite the elaborate concrete and steel fortifications of the French line.

Fort construction has doubled the volume of the German cement industry in the last six months, business surveys show.

Public Educated Against Spies. Coincident with the defense preparations, a campaign of public education against spies has been inaugurated by the Nazi Government. German citizens are constantly reminded of the danger of disclosing defense facts to foreigners.

Spies, the public is told, are numerous and seek constant information for the use of foreign governments against the Fatherland. The propaganda campaign has even used a motion picture, depicting spy methods and the fate of citizens who furnish information.

The importance of not talking about military activities has been stressed by the magazine "Wehrfront." The magazine recommended, however, that the anti-spy drive not be extended so far that Germans consider every foreigner an espionage agent.

Sailing From Gloucester on World Cruise

EXPECTING to be gone two and one-half years, this group set sail from the Massachusetts port Sunday on the schooner, Yankee, with members of several prominent families as crew. MRS. IRVING JOHNSON, wife of the skipper, is holding her 11-month-old son, ARTHUR. They plan to return in May, 1939.

152 BACK TAX BILLS PURCHASED BY CITY

Bid in for $16,062 in Order to Protect Liens on Property Involved.

At the first day of the third annual sale of delinquent tax bills at the east door of the Civil Courts Building yesterday, the city purchased 152 bills for 1928 and 1929 totaling $16,062.88 at their full face value, plus interest and penalties. The 1928 and '29 bills were being offered for the third and final time and the city bid them in at full value to protect its liens on the property involved, which might be lost if speculators were allowed to buy the bills at a fraction of their face.

About 1650 bills for 1930 and 1931, being offered for the first or second time, were put up for sale, but only 13 were purchased as the Jones-Munger law, under which the sales were made, provides that at the first or second sale a bill may not be sold for less than its face value, plus penalties and interest.

The sale will be continued at 10 a. m. tomorrow and probably will last all week. A total of 1417 bills for 1928 and 1929, aggregating $17,336, including penalties on real estate assessed in 1929 at $2,822,390, are being offered for the third and final time, along with 4500 bills for 1930 and 1931, totaling, with penalties, $201,078, on realty with assessed valuation of $17,262,600.

In buying up the 1928 and 1929 bills through G. J. Steiner, tax specialist in the Comptroller's office, the city is merely going through a bookkeeping transaction as far as its own interests in the bills are concerned. It is in the same position as before, faced with the necessity of reimbursing itself on the bills by disposing of the property involved. It is also protecting the interests of the Board of Education and the State, which have a share in the bills.

Owners of property on which final sales have been made have two years for redemption, but they will have to pay interest at 10 per cent and a 3 per cent delinquency charge. If the property owner does not redeem the bill, the purchaser of the bill obtains title to the property.

Private purchasers yesterday were Harry H. Brannan, Pattonville, Mo., Sylvester J. Dielschneider, 7525 Lansdowne avenue, Andover, N. Y., 2286 Yale avenue, Mapletown, Mrs. Jenny Murphy, 4372 Chouteau avenue, and William J. Holdaway, real estate dealer, 722 Chestnut street.

SCRAPPING RAILROADS EXCEEDS NEW BUILDING

7100 Miles of Track Laid in 1921-35; 15,840 Miles Scrapped in Same Period.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Railroad systems in the United States, faced with sharp competition from truck transports and the family motor car, abandoned twice as many miles of track as they built in the 15 years from 1921 to 1935 inclusive.

Interstate Commerce Commission records disclosed that 7100 miles of new track were laid in this period while 15,840 miles were abandoned.

The year by year report of construction and abandonment of railroad track showed a sharp tapering off of new track construction after 1931 and a marked increase in abandonment. Commission officials said many roads concentrated during the last five years in eliminating small branch lines doing little business and running "in the red."

In the 10-year stretch from 1921 to 1931 the roads abandoned 8893 miles of track, but in the next four years they abandoned a total of 1744 miles. During the latter period they built only 500 miles of new track. In 1935 they abandoned 1974 miles and built only 26 miles.

During 1935 the commission has been asked to approve only one large railroad building project—a proposed 90-mile stretch through the Northwest timber country by the Gold Coast Railroad in Oregon. T. F. Sullivan, a Commission examiner, said some proposals for new railroad lines had been turned down by the commission in recent years. One plan was proposed by a promoter who had served three prison sentences and wanted to borrow $11,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to carry out his project.

Most of the abandonment applications approved by the commission in recent years affected small branch lines serving mining or timber country where the resources upon which the traffic existed were worked out or depleted.

Sullivan expressed belief that truck transport also reduced the revenue of small railroad lines to the vanishing point. Shippers and buyers turned to dealing in truck load lots instead of carload lots. For their purposes truck transport was less expensive and consumed less time.

PERU ASSEMBLY NULLIFIES ELECTION OF DR. EGUIGUREN

Throws Out Votes Cast for Social Democrat for President; Next Step in Doubt.

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 3.—The Constituent Assembly, by a vote of 58 to 17, nullified today the apparent election to the Peruvian presidency of Dr. Luis Antonio Eguiguren, nominee of the Social Democratic party, whose candidacy met the Government's disfavor.

The assembly declared the votes cast for Eguiguren and the Social Democratic candidates for Vice-President, Senators and Deputies in the election Oct. 11 were invalid. Eguiguren had a plurality over the three other presidential candidates in the latest published returns.

(The Lima Dispatch gave no indication of the probable next step. Frequently reports from the Peruvian capital are severely censored.)

1438 More on Federal Payroll.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—An increase of 1438 employees in the executive branch of the Federal Government during September was reported by the Civil Service Commission yesterday in its monthly report. The commission said there were 835,704 employees Sept. 30. The largest increase occurred in the Department of Labor under the works program, with 1499 additions. Most reductions were credited to agencies under the works program.

TRAIN KILLS WOMAN AT GRADE CROSSING

Mrs. Eva Brandt Apparently Confused as Freight Also Passes.

By the Associated Press.

1714 North Fourteenth street, was struck by the "Abraham Lincoln" passenger train of the Alton Railroad, at the Madison street crossing. The train was northbound.

Crossing attendants said the gates had been lowered. Mrs. Brandt tried to cross the tracks from the east to the west side and apparently became confused by a southbound freight train which was also passing the crossing, police were told.

Mrs. Brandt resided with a son at the North Fourteenth street address, having moved there recently from 2345 North Wharf street, where her husband, George, lives. She was returning to the son's home following a visit to her husband when the accident occurred.

COSTS OF $8.75 ASSESSED AGAINST 8 DUCK HUNTERS

One Without License Others Had Not Signed Theirs; County Prosecutors Aid Protest.

Eight duck hunters arrested Sunday in St. Louis County near the Missouri River were taken before Justice of the Peace George R. Hart at once and assessed costs of $8.75 each. One was arrested for having no license and the other seven for failing to sign their licenses.

The arrests were made by Deputy Game Warden Tom Garfinkel and B. Riley Hawk Jr. Each hunter pleaded guilty and paid the costs. Justice Hart told a Post-Dispatch reporter the game warden were making an effort to eliminate improper licenses and to prevent licenses from being lent to others.

However, John J. McNatt, assistant prosecuting attorney, said an investigation would be made by his office. He said Justice Hart had no right to assess costs and the men arrested should not have paid. McNatt said no information had been issued for the offenses. If information had been issued and the men had then pleaded guilty, they should have been fined, he said. When they obtained their licenses they should have been made to sign their names at that time. McNatt added, The duck hunting season opened Sunday.

LABOR'S NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE SPENT $156,000

Independent Coalition of American Women Reports Expenditure of $87,000.

Major contributions to the League since its last report were $5000 each from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. The Independent Coalition of American Women reported receipts of $102,721 and expenditures of $87,878. Principal contributors included Harriet L. Greenway, Greenwich, Conn., $5000; Mrs. Lorraine Manville, New York, $1000; Edward H. Hutton, Westbury, N. Y., $1000; Mrs. Jerome Marmele, Washington, D. C., $1000, and Mrs. Pierre du Pont, Kennett Square, Pa., $100.

Missouri U-Oxford Debate Nov. 14.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 3.—Two Oxford University debaters, scheduled to arrive in the United States today, will meet a Missouri University team here Nov. 14 in one of 22 appearances they will make at mid-Western colleges and universities. The English team will argue the affirmative of the question: "Resolved: That the American Constitution is a menace to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

TWO OF QUADRUPLTS DIE AT SENATH, MO.

Others in Serious Condition Day Following Birth in Sharecropper's Cabin.

By the Associated Press.

SENATH, Mo., Nov. 3.—Two of the quadruplets born last night to Mr. and Mrs. James Bridges died today in their isolated two-room river valley cabin.

Dr. F. W. Speidel, 67-year-old country doctor who delivered the one boy and three girls, left for the home of the sharecropper family shortly after being informed of the deaths.

He said the child born first died about 8 a. m., and the fourth child delivered succumbed a short while later.

"Help will have to get through if the other two babies are to live," Dr. Speidel said. "The other two are in serious condition."

"The Dunklin County doctor and nurse tried to get through early today and failed. It has rained all night and the road is practically impassable. There is four feet of water in the lowlands between Senath and the cabin. Anyone who wants to get there will have to wade these last half mile."

"The babies must be moved to a hospital at Jonesboro, Ark., 45 miles away, or Memphis, Tenn., about 150 miles from here."

Ambulance sent from Memphis. The babies weighed from two pounds to three and a half pounds each, the physician estimated. He had no scales to weigh them.

An ambulance sent from Memphis, a trained nurse, incubators, milk from a Memphis municipal hospital, and all the aid science could muster was at hand as soon as the house could be reached. The nurse waded through to attend to the babies.

Bridges, who farms on shares for W. G. Gray, Senath attorney, sat in a chair and poked wood in the fire as the doctor worked last night. The first birth was at 6:30. When Bridges realized he was the father of quadruplets, he "almost fainted," said Dr. Speidel.

"I don't know what in the world to do," Bridges said. "I have no money to take care of them, but I sure want them to live."

The doctor rubbed each baby with warm hog grease. Three neighbor women tore up old clothing and cloth to make wrappers for the infants.

Red Cross Promises Aid. Aid from the American Red Cross was promised by F. A. Wingrey, assistant midwestern manager in St. Louis, who said he was authorizing the Dunklin County chairman, Elmer Blakemore at Kennett, Mo., to "take whatever steps are necessary."

Mrs. Bridges is 35 years old, her husband 44. They have had five other children but only one, a 4-year-old girl, is living.

Once before in his years of practice Dr. Speidel delivered quadruplets—to a mother with smallpox. The babies died.

He said Mr. Bridges was a "healthy" woman who normally weighed about 160 pounds.

Dr. Speidel said he had not examined Mrs. Bridges before last night. Senath is in the extreme southeast corner of Missouri, between the St. Francis and Mississippi Rivers. The Bridges cabin is about five miles north of here, in the St. Francis River valley.

VOICE OF KING GEORGE V TO BE BROADCAST IN CANADA

Legion Gets Permission to Use Recording of Peace Speech in Armistice Services.

By the Associated Press. OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 3.—The voice of the late King George V of England is to be broadcast on Armistice night, Nov. 11, in the Canadian Legion's annual nationwide radio service. Permission to reproduce the following excerpt from the late monarch's last Christmas broadcast has been received from Buckingham Palace:

"In Europe and many parts of the world anxieties surround us. It is good to think that our own family of peoples is at peace in itself and united in one desire to be at peace with other nations—the friend of all, the enemy of none. May the spirit of good will and mutual helpfulness grow and spread. Then it will bring not only the blessing of peace but a solution of the economic troubles which still beset us."

YES, THIS FOOD ENDS YOUR CONSTIPATION

Look out for those half-sick days, when you feel listless, headachy, out-of-sorts. Your trouble may be constipation. The real cause of common constipation is too little "bulk" in meals. Your system misses its regular exercise.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron. Certainly you'd rather eat a food than take pills and drugs. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BAINBRIDGE COLBY ATTACKS ROOSEVELT'S 'REPELLING' TALK

Says President Could Hardly Have Chosen a Surer Way to Alienate Support.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State under President Wilson, spoke against the reelection of President Roosevelt in a radio address last night.

He particularly attacked Roosevelt's campaign speech of last Saturday night, declaring: "His address was the most amazing campaign speech ever delivered, because the most repelling. Presumably aiming to attract support, he could hardly have chosen a surer way to alienate it."

"Here was a President, not smarting merely under criticism, but writhing under it; swept headlong by hysterical resentment; shaken by the intensity of his hatreds, and so bitter and reckless that he threw reserve and even prudence to the winds as he boastfully proclaimed that he already had proved a match for those who opposed or criticized him, and if re-elected would prove he was their master."

CHARITY LEADER CRITICISES ST. LOUIS COUNTY COURT

Herschel Alt Tells Kirkwood Women Judges Have Not Provided Adequate Relief.

Herschel Alt, director of the St. Louis Provident Association and the St. Louis Children's Aid Society, criticized the St. Louis County Court yesterday for not providing sufficient funds for relief and the care of dependent children. He spoke before the Kirkwood League of Women Voters at Woodlawn Codetown Club.

The county has spent about $30,000 this year for relief, but for several months has been unable to provide any assistance to those in need. Alt said private welfare agencies were spending more in the county this year than last, but were unable to provide adequate assistance. The County Court, he said, had not accepted responsibility this year for the care of any new dependent children "who are legally its responsibility."

U. S. NOTE TO AUSTRALIA ON TRADE DISCRIMINATION

Expresses Hope That Improved Conditions Will Result in Relaxed Restrictions.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The United States dispatched a note today to the Australian Government expressing hope that the improved economic and financial outlook for that nation would prompt it to relax its present policy of discrimination against American trade.

It was estimated that the United States stood to lose approximately $7,000,000 annually in its commerce with Australia if that country's system of import prohibition and increased tariffs, invoked last May, were continued.

After formally protesting against the Australian move, this Government in June removed Australia from its most favored nation list, thereby forcing exporters there to pay the highest duties in the American tariff system.

LEGAL GAMBLING GAIN TAXED; ILLEGAL LOSSES NO OFFSET

Appeals Board Decides Man Can't Deduct Florida Deficit From Winnings in Mexico.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Board of Tax Appeals held today that losses in illegal gambling could not be used to offset gains from legal gambling in computing income taxes.

The board decided H. S. Anderson, Boulder City, Nev., owed $3253 additional income taxes for 1931, representing the tax on $2810 won in Mexico, where gambling is legal. Anderson sought unsuccessfully to deduct $30,000 in losses sustained in illegal gambling operations in Florida.

"Since illegality is the underlying and controlling factor upon which prior decisions have been based," the board said, "the illegality of gambling in Florida must operate no less to deprive the petitioner of the treatment of his Florida losses to wipe out his Mexican gains."

RECORD VOTE LIKELY IN MADISON COUNTY

Total May Go as High as 65,000, According to County Clerk.

A record vote that might go as high as 65,000 was predicted for Madison County by County Clerk Norbert Hotz, in charge of election machinery, on the basis of early reports from the polls today. The previous record vote was 57,933, cast in the 1932 presidential election, when Roosevelt carried the county by 15,437.

No registration figures were available, as precinct election officials are not required in Madison County to report the number registered in their precincts to the County Clerk. An informal system prevails, many persons not bothering to register on the two regular registration days. If they are challenged at the polls, they must make an affidavit as to their residence in the precinct, but otherwise they may vote without having registered. The precinct officials are not required to turn their records over to the County Clerk for inspection and relinquish them only to their successors. The County Clerk accepts the word of the precinct officials as to the validity of the registrations and the voting. Under this system, votes seemingly are cast at an amazing speed. In the one Madison precinct, 900 persons were reported to have voted in the first three and a half hours after the polls opened at 6 a. m. That was a rate of 171 a hour, or almost three a minute. About 2000 votes were expected by the time the polls close at 5 p. m. At one of the two Venice polling places, Precinct One, 575 votes had been cast by 9:30 a. m., with a total of 1500 to 1800 predicted.

The presidential race has dominated the campaign in the county. Besides the State and Federal offices, there are five county offices to be filled, all now occupied by Democrats. Most important is that of State's Attorney, in which the incumbent, Lester Geers of Edwardsville is seeking reelection. His Republican opponent is M. E. Newell, Alton attorney.

Text of President Roosevelt's Election Eve Address Voicing Faith in Popular Government

Majority Rule, He Says Over Radio, Is Only Rule We Will Ever Put Up With.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's radio address last night:

My Friends: I have come home to my own country to vote with my fellow townsmen. My people have voted here in Dutchess County for more than a century. I cast my first vote here in 1903. Tomorrow 55 million Americans are eligible to vote. I hope that all of those 55 millions will vote. I like to think of these millions as individual citizens from Maine to the southern tip of California, from Key West to Puget Sound—farmers who stop their fall plowing long enough to drive into town with their wives—wage earners stopping on the way to work or the way we believe in it even more because of our experience.

Progress and Majority Rule.

Here in the United States we have been a long time at the business of self-government. The longer we are at it the more certain we become that we can continue to govern ourselves—that progress is the side of majority rule—that if mistakes are to be made we prefer to make them ourselves and to do our own correcting.

When you and I stand in line tomorrow for our turn at the polls we will stand in a line which reaches back across the entire history of our nation.

Washington stood in that line and Jefferson and Jackson and Lincoln. And in later days Cleveland stood there and Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. All these—in their day—waited their turn to vote. And rubbing elbows with them—their voting equals—is a long succession of American citizens whose names are not known to history but who, by their vote, helped to make history.

Every man and every woman who has voted in the past has had a hand in the making of the United States of the present. Every man and woman who votes tomorrow will have a hand in the making of the United States of the future. To refuse to vote is to say: "I am not interested in the United States of the future."

Progress from Experience.

We who live in a free America know that our democracy is not perfect. But we are beginning to know also that—in self-government as in many other things—progress comes from experience. People do not become good citizens by mandate. They become good citizens by the exercise of their citizenship and by the discussions, the reading, the campaign give-and-take which help them make up their minds how to exercise that citizenship.

Not only are people voting in larger numbers this year. They also know more this year than ever before about the real issues. They are thinking for themselves. They listen to both sides. They no longer accept at face value opinions or even statements from newspapers, from political spokesmen and from the so-called leaders of their communities. They insist on checking up.

I doubt if there was ever more down-right political intelligence at the average American fireside than there is today.

Product of Free Institutions.

For a century and a half we have had here free education and a free press, free public forums and a free pulpit. For more than a decade we have had a free radio. The American citizen of 1936, therefore, is a product of free institutions. His mind has been sharpened by the exercise of freedom. That is why I have no fear—either of the threats of demagogues or the ambitions of dictators. Neither can I get far nor long thrive among a people who have learned to think for themselves and who have the courage to act as they think.

This year they have thought things through to a point where the eternal simplicities mean more than the fuz-buzz of technical talk. They know that the important thing is the spirit in which government will face problems as they come up, and the values it will seek to preserve or to enhance. At bottom those are the things that count.

Still another thing heartens me. This year not only are more people voting, not only have people thought things through more carefully, but more people in all parties have assumed the obligation of citizens to get out and work in the political processes by which democracy maintains itself.

Nearly six months ago I said: "I make this specific recommendation—that each and every one who is interested in obtaining the facts and in spreading those facts abroad, each and every one of you interested in getting at the truth that lies somewhere behind the smoke-screen of charges and counter-charges of a national campaign, constitute yourself a committee of one."

Commendation for Opposition.

Hundreds of thousands have responded to that suggestion. Tonight I salute those committees of one—not only with personal gratitude, but with the gratitude of a democracy that can only function if its people are willing to take honorable part in it.

And I also commend those who have worked in a similar honorable way in the opposition. They too have helped the public understand the issues before it, and that is a service to democracy. I confidently look forward to their continued co-operation in the service of democracy. On Saturday night I said that "there should be no bitterness or hate where the sole thought is the welfare of the United States of America." That applies to men and women in all parties. It is true, tonight, on the eve of election. It will be true after the election.

Whoever is elected tomorrow will become the President of all the people. It will be his concern to meet the problems of all the people with an understanding mind and with no trace of partisan feeling. Any President should welcome any American citizen or group of citizens who can offer constructive suggestions for the management of Government or for the improvement of laws.

Society needs constant vigilance and the interest of individual men and women.

No Strings on Voters.

And when you go to the ballot box tomorrow, do not be afraid to vote as you think best for the kind of a world you want to have. There need be no strings on any of us in the polling place.

A man or woman in the polling booth is his or her own boss. There once was a time when the ballot was not secret. That is not so today. How a citizen votes is the citizen's own business. No one will fire you because you vote contrary to his wishes or instructions. No one will know how you vote. And don't let anyone intimidate you or coerce you by telling you otherwise.

In the polling booth we are all equals. It is an experience in responsibility and humility to be permitted, as President, to know and share the hopes and the difficulties, the patience and the courage, the victory and the defeat of this great people.

Sometimes men wonder over much what they will receive for what they are giving in the service of a democracy—whether it is worth the cost to share in that struggle which is a part of the business of representative government. But the reward of that effort is to feel that they have been a part of great things—that they have helped to build—that they have had their share in the great battles of their generation.

However large or small our part, we can all feel with Theodore Roosevelt who said: "It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled, or where the door of death could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumphs of high achievement; and who at the worst, if he fails, at least falls while daring greatly; so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither defeat nor victory."

TOWNSEND CLUBS INDORSE 7 REPUBLICANS, 2 DEMOCRATS

Only One Union Party Candidate for Congress Listed on Slate in Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—James A. Turner, State Director of the Townsend clubs, said today the clubs had endorsed the candidacies of seven Republicans, two Democrats and one Union party candidate for Congress in Missouri. Turner said the clubs also were supporting William Lemke, Union party candidate for President, in this State.

The endorsed congressional candidates are: First District, J. G. Morgan, Unionville, Republican; Second District, O. B. Whitaker, Weaubleau, Republican; Third District, Miles Elliott, St. Joseph, Republican; Fourth District, Clarence Hatfield, Kansas City, Union; Fifth District, Lowell R. Johnson, Kansas City, Republican; Sixth District, T. H. Douglas, Bolivar, Republican; Seventh District, Gene Frost, Cassville, Democrat; Eighth District, none; Ninth District, none; Tenth District, none; Eleventh District, L. C. Dyer, St. Louis, Republican; Twelfth District, C. Arthur Anderson, Democrat; Thirteenth District, Harry E. Wiebe, St. Louis, Republican.

Turner said only two of these candidates—Hatfield of the Fourth District and Frost of the Seventh—had endorsed the Townsend old-age pension program. Hatfield, defeated for the Republican congressional nomination in the primary, will oppose, as the Union party candidate, C. Jasper Bell, Democratic incumbent, who headed a congressional committee which investigated the Townsend and other old-age person plans at the last session.

WOMAN M. P. FOR FIRST TIME REPLIES TO KING'S SPEECH

Conservative Member in Evening Gown as Occasion Demands; Urges Preparedness.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Miss Florence Horsburgh, Conservative member of Parliament for Dundee, delivered the opening reply to King Edward's speech from the throne today, the first woman ever to do so. She was chosen by the Speaker of the House of Commons because of her popularity.

Miss Horsburgh wore a brown evening gown, thus meeting the traditional requirement that the speaker appear in uniform, complete with sword, or else in evening dress, even though it may be broad daylight.

She was warmly applauded, especially when she asserted: "If ever the time comes again when women wait and men fight, one great suffering we demand that we shall not undergo, namely that human lives should be sacrificed because due preparation was neglected."

65 NEW JERSEY WPA YOUTHS ACCUSED OF ILLEGAL VOTING

Arrested on Complaint of G. O. P. Worker After Election Board Makes No Decision.

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 3.—Sixty-five young men living at the WPA State work camp at North Haledon, near here, were arrested today on charges of illegal voting filed by Michael Stein, Republican party challenger.

The arrests were made after the district election board had recorded two tie votes on the question whether the men could vote legally and had referred the question to Common Pleas Judge Joseph A. Delaney. Delaney ruled he had no jurisdiction in the matter. The board then permitted the men to vote under protest. Each of the youths was arrested after he voted, and was released in the custody of Preston Reilly, junior camp commander, after arraignment.

Hasn't Missed Vote Since 1866.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Nov. 3.—Patrick Morrison, 97 years old, voted the straight Democratic ticket today, just as he has since 1866, when Stephen Douglas ran against Abraham Lincoln. Morrison, who voted against Lincoln twice, said he never had missed a vote, either primary or general election, and always had voted the straight Democratic ticket.

PAIR CHARGED WITH THEFT OF PURSES IN THEATERS

One, Reported to Be Ex-Convict, Admits Stealing Handbags From Women.

Larceny warrants were issued yesterday, police announced, against John Johnston, 40 years old, and William Johnson, 33, for the theft of purses from women in movie theaters.

They were arrested Sunday at Tenth street and Delmar boulevard after on usher followed Johnston from Loew's Theater and recovered a purse containing $18, which had been taken from Miss Theresa Schoon, 2126 Chippewa street. Johnston met Johnson after the latter left the theater.

Police searched the room the pair occupied at 1405 Pine street and recovered railroad passes belonging to Miss May Loeffler, 5348 Lindenwood avenue, whose purse was stolen at the Missouri Theater last Tuesday. Johnston admitted stealing Miss Loeffler's purse and another belonging to Miss Viola Garber, 4342A Laclede avenue, at the Fox Theater the same day, according to police. He told officers, they reported, that he served two prison terms in New York for theft.

OVERFLOW CROWD OF 21,000 CHEERS BROWDER AT RALLY

Communist Declares at Madison Square Garden
That Reactionaries Want
G. O. P. Victory.

DEMANDS DEFEAT
OF GOV. LANDON

Predicts Formation of Powerful Farmer-Labor Party That Will Block Spread of Fascism.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3. — Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate, speaking last night before a cheering audience of 21,000, which jammed Madison Square Garden, demanded that Gov. Landon be defeated, and predicted the formation of a powerful Farmer-Labor party. His speech was broadcasted nationally.

His entrance to the hall was followed by a 10 minutes of whistling and stamping, and the blaring of the "International" anthem, the worldwide labor solidarity by a single hand.

A large crowd unable to gain admission heard the speech from amplifiers strung along adjacent streets.

The audience booed mentions of Landon, Hearst, Father Coughlin and a dozen others.

"Madness of Fascism," Browder asserted that the charge of Communism against President Roosevelt "is the infallible sign of madness of Fascism."

"Everywhere that democracy has been destroyed," he asserted, "it has been done under the smokescreen of the Red scare. It is now today to all intelligent Americans that a victory for Landon will be cheered by every reasonable force in our country and throughout the whole world."

"For the Communist party, tonight is not the end of our campaign. It is only the beginning of a new campaign to build and strengthen the Communist party in order that we can give our full length and loyalty to the Farmer-Labor party."

"President Roosevelt's election is a rebuke to the worst reactionaries, but is no guarantee against the further progress of fascism in America."

"On the Traditional Course," President Roosevelt is trying to lead the traditional course of the middle - of - the - road. Standing surely behind the maintenance of capitalism, he has gained the hands of the big-money families, of monopoly capital, by his insistence on some measure of restraint to the choice of ten.

their short-sighted greed for mountainous profits and unlimited exploitation of the people.

"It is the unbridled ferocity of the Wall Street-Hearst hatred of Roosevelt that has frightened the American people so much that even the Farmer-Labor movement, and the progressive trade unions moving toward a Farmer-Labor party, abandoned their plans for an independent national ticket this year and rallied to the re-election of the President."

Browder said the Communist movement did not agree with the pro-Roosevelt progressives, "because we cannot follow the progressives when they abandon their political independence and place full reliance upon President Roosevelt's re-election as the solution of our problems."

Predicts People's Front.
"The Communist party," he asserted, "has campaigned for its own ticket as a means of building, and strengthening the foundations for that people's front which must arise nationally after this election, but as surely as the morning must follow the night."

Browder said that there is only one justification and value in a new party.

"That is if it unites not only the million or so voters ready for Socialism, but also with them the tens of millions of workers and farmers, not ready for Socialism but sick to death of the two old parties and ready and anxious to unite for progress and democracy."

"Such a party," he added, "will not give us Socialism, but it will be a guarantee against Fascism."

Turning briefly to international affairs, the Communist candidate discussed the "imminent danger of war, coming directly from Hitler, Mussolini and Japanese Fascists."

In this respect, he referred to the Soviet Union as "that most developed democracy and stronghold of peace in the world."

Man Hurt When Auto and Truck Collide Dies.
Raymond J. Cummings, 32 years old, of Jerseyville, Ill., died last night at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, of a fractured skull, suffered last Friday evening in an automobile accident on United States Highway 67, a mile northwest of Alton.
Cummings had been unconscious
at the hospital since the accident, which occurred when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a truck. The machine was driven by Ira Stone, Manchester, Ill., who suffered minor injuries.

EDWARD K. LOVE AGAIN URGES
ADOPTION OF AMENDMENT 4 Says It Will Not Require Use of Large Amounts from General Fund for Parks.

Edward K. Love, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Missouri Restoration and Conservation Federation, made another appeal last night for approval at the polls of Amendment 4 for a bipartisan Conservation Commission to administer the State's wild life resources.

In answer to a statement by J. L.
Babier, donor of State park property on Wild Horse Creek road in St. Louis County, Love said adoption of the amendment would not mean that large amounts would have to be taken from general revenue for park purposes. He said the law under which 25 per cent of funds from hunting and fishing licenses went to parks would not be changed and that the Federal Government would provide $100,000 annually to supplement State funds now used for parks and forestry conservation. The proposed amendment would not increase taxes, he said.

NORTHWESTERN, THEN MINNESOTA IN FOOTBALL RANKINGS HIGH

FORDHAM GIVEN THIRD POSITION AND MARQUETTE RANKED FOURTH

Pitt. U. of Washington, Louisiana State, Nebraska, Santa Clara and Tulane in First Ten.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—There'll be a respite Saturday for the football teams that have been selected by sports writers and editors as the week's best. In one contest they don't come to grips with one another, but that doesn't necessarily mean they face "set-ups."

The weekly Associated Press poll puts Northwestern's Wildcats, upset victors over Minnesota, at the head of the pike in the ranking for the week. They got there only after a voting battle almost as keen as the one they played against the previous pace setters at Evanston. The final count, on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis, with 43 experts voting, gave Northwestern 412 points and Minnesota 371.

A total of 31 contributors ranked the Wildcats first, while 10 remained steadfast in selecting Minnesota despite the defeat. Fordham, moving up to third with 227 points, was picked for No. 1 by two voters.

The Wildcats take on Wisconsin this week, and while they figure to win, may have a hard time, especially if there's any tendency toward a letdown. Minnesota faces much the same situation against Iowa, while Fordham is rated only a slight favorite over Alabama, fourth on the list with 145 points, has an open date.

The rankings:

Rank	Team	Points
1.	Northwestern	412
2.	Minnesota	371
3.	Fordham	227
4.	Marquette	212
5.	Pittsburgh	191
6.	Washington	181
7.	Louisiana State	168
8.	Nebraska	165
9.	Santa Clara	145
10.	Tulane	145
11.	Southern California	76
12.	Southern Methodist	40
13.	Notre Dame	17
14.	Alabama	16
15.	Duke and Pennsylvania	10

THREE LETTERMEN ON LARGE ST. LOUIS U. BASKETBALL SQUAD

Three lettermen were among 13 players reporting for St. Louis University's first basketball practice yesterday under the direction of the new head coach, Eddie Davidson, who succeeded Mike Nyikos.

They were Frank Keany, co-captain, Sid Mudd and Henry Huettner. Martin Rossini, the other captain, Les Cagle, Woody Hermann and Len Gorman are occupied with football at present, but will report at the end of the football season.

CHANGES PLANNED IN SOCCER CLUB LINEUPS

The Town Criers will face Club Lotus and the Burkes will battle the "arts" in the St. Louis Professional Soccer League twin-bill tomorrow night at West Side Park.

The Burkes, with three victories and a loss, are first, with Phil Kavanagh's Club Lotus team trailing by one point. The Town Criers have three points and the Harts, in last place, have bagged a pair.

Eddie Hart, whose team bears his name, has seen his young team turn in two straight ties. During the past week the Harts recorded deadlocks with the Town Criers and Club Lotus eleven.

The Burkes, after getting off to a bad start by losing to the Town Criers, had won their last three starts.

Johnny Marre and Phil Kavanagh, respective leaders of the Town Criers and Club Lotus clubs, plan some changes in their battle lines.

When Missouri U. plays St. Louis U. Saturday at Walsh Memorial Stadium, Coach Don Faurot of the Tigers will present the most plentiful supply of backs ever put on display by a visiting team here, according to football old-timers. In the group are, left to right, front row: Ewing, Duncan, Mondala, Mahley, Mason. Back row: Castle, Sneed, Murray, Londe, Gasparac and Frye.

St. Louis May Bid for U. S. Amateur Boxing Title Meet; 31 Negro Fighters Suspended

The final meeting of the Ozark A. A. U. before the National A. A. U. convention at Houston, Tex., was held last night at the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

It was definitely decided that the delegates from this district would use their discretion in bidding for the National A. A. U. Boxing Championships. This event proved a huge success here in 1934 and 1935. It is expected that Benny Kessler, local leader of amateur boxing, will have quite a bit to say in whether the bid shall be made in behalf of St. Louis.

Extra precautions were taken in insuring the local organization to be composed of only the highest type clubs when an "Investigation Committee" was named by Charles Gevecker, president, to look into the qualifications of clubs seeking membership in the association. Purpose, officers, meeting place, members and name of the club are a few of the facts that will be checked. F. Marvin Plake of the St. Louis Relay Association, framer of the plan, was selected as chairman of the committee and will be aided by Roy Keller, Carl Bauer, James Monteith and Ernie Vornbrock.

31 Boxers Suspended. Through Claude Neaves, chairman of the Registration Committee, the suspension of 31 amateur boxers who participated in a recent Negro tournament without bringing their registration to date, was announced.

At the same time, Neaves stated that a form was being prepared for distribution to every club interested in boxing which clearly sets forth the requirements, one of them being that in order to participate in a match, the fighter must be registered at least three days before the event.

St. Louis' single representative in the Olympic Games, Harriett Bland, red-haired sprinter, has tentatively given up competitive track but will still be in the sport as head of the women's track and field committee. She will also act as advisor and coach for several girl athletes in this vicinity.

Indications are that Helen Stephens, Fulton Flash, might leave

Official Decisions Questioned After Bierman Views Pictures

By the Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 3.—The referee's decision penalizing Minnesota for unnecessary roughness and thus putting Northwestern in position to score a winning touchdown over the Gophers last week-end, was held questionable today by Coach Bernie Bierman.

The Gopher mentor said motion pictures of the game, which the Wildcats won, 6 to 0, and ended Minnesota's victory string at 21, revealed the foul called on tackle Ed Widseth was not a "serious breach of the rules."

Referee John Getchell imposed the penalty. It put the ball on the one-yard line and Northwestern subsequently scored.

"The pictures do not show definitely just exactly what happened," said Bierman. "But after carefully studying them, I am convinced that Widseth's foul certainly was not a serious breach of the rules."

"The pictures show that Widseth's arm came up and then down but it is impossible to determine whether he was slapping the ball carrier on the shoulder, shoving him down or just slipping off balance."

TIGERS' COACH SAYS REFEREE ERRED TWICE IN NEBRASKA GAME

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 3.—Coach Don Faurot, University of Missouri football coach, said yesterday after viewing motion pictures of the Missouri-Nebraska game that Referee Frank Birch had erred twice in the third quarter.

Faurot, saying he was not claiming that Missouri would have won had the decisions been in the Tigers' favor, said one of the decisions gave Nebraska a touchdown and the other halted the Missourians after they had swept inside the Nebraska five-yard line.

In one of the plays, Gus Peters, Nebraska guard, intercepted a shovel pass from Jack Frye, Missouri quarterback. Tackled, he sent the ball to Paul Amen, Nebraska end, who ran for a touchdown. Birch ruled Peters had fumbled the ball.

Faurot said the pictures showed that Peters passed the ball with both hands forward to Amen. The other decision was rendered when the Tigers were stopped in their third quarter attack. Birch ruled Frye was closer to the line of scrimmage when he required five yards when he passed to Ray Moss on the fourth down.

Faurot said the pass would have given Missouri a first down. The picture, the coach said, showed Frye was standing at the required distance from the line of scrimmage when he passed the ball. Faurot declined to say if he would file a protest.

Nebraska Coach's Views. LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 3.—Coach Dana X. Bible of the University of Nebraska said Gus Peters, Cornhusker guard, was guilty of a "pure, simple, downright fumble" in last Saturday's game with Missouri.

Peters intercepted a Missouri shovel pass and started for the Tiger goal line. The ball zoomed from his grasp; and Paul Amen, end, scooped it up and ran for a touchdown.

"I said moving pictures shown here clearly indicated the play was a fumble. He said the difference in the coach's opinions probably was caused by difference in the pictures and the angles from which they were taken."

WARRENSBURG PLAYER IS SCORING LEADER

By the Associated Press.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 3.—Harry Bapet, Warrensburg half-back, retained his lead in the Missouri intercollegiate athletic association individual scoring race last week, but Godwin of Cape Girardeau and Hammer of Warrensburg pulled up to within one touchdown of him.

Bapet has 24 points while Godwin and Hammer each has 18. Cavanaugh of Kirksville, the conference leader last year, climbed to fourth with 14 points.

Taylor of Rolla, Union of Maryville and Brown of Warrensburg are tied for fifth with 12 points.

Dizzy Dean Is Great Pitcher, But He Is Not Bigger Than the Cardinal Club, Bredon Asserts

By the Associated Press. DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Nov. 3.—Sam Bredon, owner of the St. Louis National League baseball team, said yesterday Dizzy Dean, star pitcher, "is a great ballplayer, but he is not bigger than the Cardinals' ball club."

Commenting on Dean's announced intention to stay at St. Louis when the Cardinals come here for spring training, Bredon declared:

"Dean and the rest of the Cardinals will train at Daytona Beach in March. If Dean doesn't train here, he will not play for the Cards."

It would be impossible for Dean to train at Bradenton, Bredon said.

"If one player could do that, all of them would want to, and we'd have a cross country training camp," Bredon added. "You can imagine what that would be like."

CHICAGO U. IS ALL EVEN WITH OHIO STATE IN BIG 10 RANKING

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Things didn't hape up like this a few weeks back—but today the Chicago Maroons are being rated a chance to trip up Ohio's State erstwhile "Scarlet Scourge" next Saturday.

The Maroons were badly beaten by Vanderbilt, tied Butler and were routed by Purdue while Ohio State defeated New York "U," lost to Pitt and Northwestern, and defeated Indiana. Then last Saturday Chicago, doped to go down quickly before Wisconsin, whipped the Badgers 7 to 6, while Ohio State was losing to Notre Dame.

All Tied Up. As a result, the teams are tied for fifth place in the Western Conference—and the once ill-regarded Maroons weren't conceding the Buckeyes anything. In Solite Sherman Chicago has a fine sophomore back who averaged 8 yards from scrimmage against the Badgers, and the Maroons, after a slow start, appear likely to give any team a hard tussle.

The Buckeyes yesterday went through a light drill, studying a part of Chicago plays. Tippy Dye, Joe Williams and Charles Hamrick were on the sick list. The Maroons had a signal workout indoors.

At Michigan, Coach Harry Kipke sent his Wolverines through a signal drill and announced no scrimmage would be held all week. Michigan travels to Pennsylvania Saturday. Indiana's varsity reported for a short practice in good condition, no players being seriously hurt against Iowa, while Iowa reviewed mistakes made against Indiana and planned a defense for the expected charge of Minnesota's Gophers.

When the chalk was low, Jimmy explained that it wouldn't be like this again very soon, but that he was going to excuse the boys for the rest of the afternoon, and evening.

"But even if it rains, snows and sleets, we'll have to work every other day until the Duquesne game," he warned them.

Except for Harold Tracy and the coach himself, the Bears are in

MISSOURI HAS NOT WON FROM BILLIKEN TEAM IN 13 SEASONS

By James M. Gould.

For their fine victory over Wichita University last Saturday, the St. Louis U. Billikens were given a day off yesterday as a reward. As things worked out, the vacation resulted in no loss of practice time as a heavy storm would have prevented any sort of a workout had one been scheduled. But, today, come rain or shine or snow or sleet, Coach Muellerlelle will have his men out because only three days of preparation remain before the important game, Saturday afternoon, with the Missouri Tigers at Walsh Stadium.

A couple of weeks ago, a football prophet might safely have predicted that the Tigers would win this game, the only question being the size of the score. Today, such a prediction would be neither safe nor sane for, although the Tigers still must be considered as favorites and still must be regarded as "tough hombres," the Billikens' sudden return to form gives the St. Louisians an excellent chance for victory.

Coach Muellerlelle's team has discovered it possesses a passing attack and what is more, it has suddenly developed a pass defense which was almost impenetrable against Wichita. Don Henry, a St. Louis official who worked the Billiken-Wichita game, was high in his praise of the Billikens and said that, in that contest, he never had seen a more smoothly-working Billiken machine.

Drone Back in Condition. Neither the Billikens nor Tigers will have any injury complex to contend with this week as all of the players of the two teams came through their last week engagements without injury. And, it speaks volumes for the physical condition of the Tigers that they could manfully oppose a juggernaut like Nebraska's without being severely "broken up." Also, the Wichita Shockers are not known as the most polite players on the American gridiron. Both Wichita and Nebraska play clean football but neither asks nor gives any quarter once the first whistle blows.

Marty Rossini, the best of the St. Louis tackles, missed the Wichita battle, but he will be in the Missouri encounter with both feet. And, if you knew Marty and the size of his "understanding," you would realize that that means he will be very much present. Then, Lou Mack, Nebraska's top halfback, found himself against Wichita and played a whale of a game at quarter, kicking well and handling the team beautifully.

Appraised that Missouri has one of its best lines in years, the Billikens are expected to rely on the attack for a gain. On the other hand, the Tigers may "keep their feet on the ground."

Billikens Hold the Edge. Saturday's game will be the fourteenth between the two universities over a span of 32 years. In many of the games, the series has been interrupted because of relations between the two have been interrupted four times. Of the 13 games, St. Louis has won eight, the Tigers four and one resulted in a scoreless tie.

Play opened in 1904. That year and the next the Billikens won each time by the same score, 17 to 0. Four years elapsed before the next meeting and, in 1910, the Tigers won, 3 to 0. The next year, the Billikens took the game, 5 to 0. Again the series was interrupted, this time by a couple of years. In 1920, a set of four games, the first three won by Missouri and the 1923 affair turning out to be a 0-0 deadlock.

The third interruption prevented the eleven, from meeting, after 1923 until 1930 when the first of five successive games was played. This period saw the Billikens greatly superior to their rivals for they won all five, 20 to 0, 21 to 6, 19 to 6, 13 to 7 and in 1934, their first under Coach Muellerlelle, 7 to 0. Last year, the teams did not meet.

The series wasn't won from St. Louis since their 9-0 victory in 1922 and, Saturday, they will be seeking their first decision in 14 years. To earn it, they will have to break a Billiken winning streak of five straight. The figures for the 13 games since 1920 are: St. Louis has scored 113 points and Missouri 107. St. Louis' most decisive victory was in 1930—20 to 0; Missouri won, 44 to 0, in 1920 and 32 to 0 in 1921.

MISSOURI U. DRILLS ON BILLIKEN PLAYS

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 3.—Coach Don Faurot today turned his attention to preparation of his Missouri University football team for a game Saturday with the St. Louis University Billikens at St. Louis.

Dismissing controversial questions regarding official decisions made at Lincoln last week when Missouri lost to Nebraska, 20 to 0, the Tiger mentor said he expected the St. Louisians to give the Tigers a busy afternoon.

Defense against St. Louis plays will occupy today's practice session, with a fundamental drill opening activities. Frye, quarterback, and Kinnison, center, missed yesterday's practice because of sore shoulders, Faurot being doubtful whether Kinnison would be in condition this week.

The Passing Show.

A GAIN the sure-shots failed to win. For optimistic bettors; Again they took it on the chin. From football upper-setters. Exactly why it should be thus. There seems to be no reason. But as a guy remarked to us: "It's just a cockeyed season."

The Wildcats took the Gophers' taw. And stopped their winning habit. The opportunity they saw. And didn't fail to grab it. Into a fist a Wildcat ran. While turning on the power. Which made the Wildcats wild. A wild prairie flower.

Unbeaten teams like autumn leaves. On every side were dropping. The while with something up their sleeves. The underdogs were coping. The current upsets in a way. Have caused a lot of wonder. But every dog must have his day. And that includes the "under."

Team! Team! The Bears and Billikens have proved to the satisfaction of all sundry that they could take started dishing it out Saturday afternoon, by way of showing versatility.

While the Billikens were taking the taw of Wichita, the Bears were giving the Oklahoma Aggie a lesson in the rotation of crops.

Minnesota's defeat by Northwestern was practically made possible by star Tackle Wildeth seeking opponent in the face twice as the whistle blew. Moral: No sock a guy after the whistle blows.

HIGH SCHOOLS TO RESUME FOOTBALL SCHEDULE, TOMORROW

ROOSEVELT TO PLAY M'KINLEY; BEAUMONT AND SOLDAN BATTLE

Another Doubleheader Booked for Saturday — "Free Gate" Question Still Is Unsettled.

By Robert Morrison

Given tacit authority to rule its own domain, the City High School League today decided to resume its football schedule tomorrow with a doubleheader, Roosevelt and McKinley play one of the games postponed from last Saturday and Beaumont and Soldan in the other. Play begins at 1:15 o'clock.

This Saturday's program, bringing together Roosevelt and Beaumont in an important contest and Central and Cleveland in another game, will be played as scheduled. Advised by the Board of Education that the interference by a board member was thoroughly disapproved, league officials re-opened their schedule and awaited further "clarification" of league management, expected at the executive session of the board next Tuesday.

Raymond R. Brislin, league manager, this morning issued the following announcement:

"With the approval of the Public High School League board and John Rush Powell, assistant superintendent of instruction, the league manager is pleased to announce that the Public High School Athletic League football schedule will be resumed under conditions set forth by the instruction committee of the St. Louis Board of Education.

Reason for Suspension. The schedule was suspended by the league board and principals of the seven high schools last Tuesday. They protested action by Henry P. Schroeder, Board of Education member, who insisted on the admission for children financially unable to purchase football tickets.

The league's protest was presented for consideration of the committee on instruction last night and this group, meeting with other board members, recommended to the league officials the schedule be resumed and strongly rebuked Schroeder for interference.

Question of a "free gate," upon which the controversy had seemed to hinge, has not been definitely decided, but it was believed that provision would be made for a "hot hole" section for poor children.

Members of the committee on instruction attending the meeting last night were Edward A. Ferrenbach and John J. Sheahan. Emil J. Barth, third member of the committee, was absent. Also in attendance were Supt. Henry J. Gerling, and six board members: Dr. Francis C. Sullivan, president; James J. Fitzgerald, Dr. David C. Todd, Dr. Solon Cameron, Mrs. Haymer Lowenhaupt and Joseph J. Ward.

The board, represented by a majority with only Schroeder, Richardson and Murphy, Arthur A. Blumeyer and Barth absent, voted to uphold the league officials in their protest and assured the league that it would be guided by this decision in the board meeting a week hence, when league management is officially to be clarified.

League Is Winner. The reason for the league protest was that football and other sports would be impossible without an admission charge to secure funds for athletic equipment.

GREEN BAY TEAM HAS COUNTED 151 POINTS IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The Green Bay Packers, co-leaders with the Chicago Bears in the Western division, have increased their hold on the ground gaining honors in the National Pro Football League. The Packers, conquerors of the Bears Sunday, have rolled up 1936 yards in seven league games, good for 151 points and the leadership in the scoring column. The Bears runners-up in both departments, with 1819 yards gained and 129 points. Defensively, the Detroit Lions are setting the pace, having held their rivals to 1135 yards in six games.

The New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates are waging a battle for forward passing honors. The Pirates, however, have the edge, completing 65 out of 138 for an average of 47 per cent, while the Giants have connected on 42 out of 122 for a 34 per cent average.

BLACKHAWKS READY FOR OPENING GAME

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—The Chicago Blackhawks, who open the National Hockey League season at the Chicago Stadium Thursday night against the New York Americans, arrived in Chicago today after a training camp at Hibbing, Minn. All players reported in top shape. The Hawks' first line again will consist of Doc Romnes, Paul Thompson and Mush March, high scoring unit of the 1935 season.

No League Poll on Night Ball for Browns; Indication It Wouldn't Bring Much Light

By J. Roy Stockton.

Prospective purchasers of the Browns have not polled other club owners in the American League about their attitude toward night baseball and the proposition of permitting the St. Louis club to play a limited number of games under the flood lights has not been broached officially, it has been learned.

An unofficial poll of the seven other clubs in the league disclosed only one club owner or official who was ready at this time to say that he would vote in favor of permitting night baseball in St. Louis.

Clark Griffith, who incidentally has been quoted several times about night baseball, and who almost invariably has stated subsequently that he has been misquoted, replied to a Post-Dispatch query that he would vote in favor of night baseball in St. Louis. He added that he was opposed to night baseball generally, but thought it would be a bad situation. He added that if the Browns regained their financial feet, he would suggest eliminating night baseball.

Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians, said that he considered night baseball a St. Louis problem, but "would be reluctant to see a swing toward baseball under the lights, since it would handicap visiting teams."

Col. Jake Rupert of the Yankees said his club wouldn't be interested in playing night games and didn't think the league could make the Yankees play at night.

Recruits Who "Came Through" Should Get Salary Increases

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Having made good in their first real try in the big time, 10 new major leaguers, headed by Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, Bob Feller of the Indians and Jimmy Riddle of the Giants, lead this winter's line at the baseball payoff window. Well armed with impressive batting and pitching averages, the other newcomers expected to be raised when the 1937 contracts come out are Johnny Mize, who batted .329 for the Cardinals; Les Scarcella, Reds' first baseman, who finished with a mark of .313; Bill Atwood and Walter Millies, catchers for the Phils and Senators, respectively; Harry Gumbert and Frank Gahler, Giants' pitchers, and Hank Kelley, who won 15 and lost 12 for the Athletics.

Boost for Joe. DiMaggio, with an average of .323 to present to a new championship manager, is almost certain to get a substantial boost. Feller, center of baseball's most interesting current controversy, likely will get what he wants without hagglng; and Riddle, who batted .306 and practically replaced Hank Leiber in center field for the Giants, will probably get his reward when young Horace Stoneham mails the 1937 contracts.

General raises are expected for the pennant winning New York clubs, with Pitchers Carl Hubbell

BEAUHULD AND ABAD TO FINISH TRAINING TODAY

By W. J. McGoogan

Billy Beahuld and Davey Abad are scheduled to finish their heavy training for their bout at the Coliseum Thursday night, with a session of boxing today, Beahuld at the Business Men's Gymnasium and Abad at the West End Gym.

Both appeared to be in condition yesterday, with Abad boxing with Kid Irish and Merl Thompson, who had difficulty in hitting the Panamanian. Davey, cagey, experienced boxer, knows that he will have to be at his best to withstand the youth and energy of Beahuld.

Beahuld has never met a man who knows so much about the art of boxing as Abad, but in winning 26 successive bouts since he turned professional, Billy has fought some good boxers.

"I don't think I have ever fought anyone so clever as Abad," Billy remarked as he was dressing for his tour in the ring. "but I have fought some fellows who boxed somewhat like him."

"Of course, there's only one Abad. I remember when I was a kid just starting out I used to like to watch him because he was so fast and his style so peculiar."

Abad Knows All Tricks. Johnny Connolly, Beahuld's manager, chimed in with the assertion that he didn't care much about taking the fight because Davey is so much more experienced than Billy.

"For my part I would rather see Billy box a young fellow who is just coming along rather than a boxer like Abad. Davey will know when he gets into that ring that he will have to use all the ring craft he has stored up in his years at the game and these experienced fellows like Abad do learn a lot. They know a great deal about keeping out of harm's way, but I think Billy will prove too rugged and strong for him."

Abad will be returning to the scene of his three greatest fights in St. Louis when he goes to the Coliseum, for it was there some years ago that his contests with Benny Bass set the boxing fans by the ears. One Davey won, another Bass won on decision, then he knocked out Abad.

Davey and Bass, though, drew some of the biggest gates which were ever attracted to the Coliseum and the fight game here mushroomed to the top of $50,000 drawn by Primo Carnera and Chuck Wiggins at the Arena shortly afterward.

Has Been Fighting on Coast. Abad fought many other bouts here after the Bass series but he never reached the heights again which he attained in them. However, he was a real card here for several years but recently has been boxing on the Pacific Coast, from where he has just returned.

Davey is not old in years but he has had a good many years in the ring. He has never been a good puncher but his bounding type of boxing has made it difficult for many an opponent. If he still has the spring in his legs he used to have he will prove difficult for the harder hitting and younger Beahuld, who got his real start at the

FLYER OFFICIALS DECLARE NELSON IS PROPERTY OF ST. LOUIS CLUB

Manager Johnny MacKinnon and other officials of the St. Louis Flyers are not the least bit concerned over the statement issued yesterday by William F. Grant, president of the American Hockey Association, that he is going to suspend Goalie Hub "Stopper" Nelson, of the local outfit, unless the difficulties between St. Louis and Minneapolis, each of which claims the star net guardian, are adjusted.

Two weeks ago, Nelson came to St. Louis and was signed to a contract by A. Frank Ruppenthal, president of the Flyers. Nelson, along with other members of the Oklahoma City team which finished the season in Minneapolis, became Flyers Sept. 4 at a meeting in Minneapolis, Ruppenthal states.

However, Lyle Wright, president of the Minneapolis team two years ago, then a member of the old Central League, is still of the opinion Nelson is the property of Minneapolis. He recently sold him to F. W. "Nick" Kahler, president of the new Minneapolis club of the A. H. A.

Grant, at present, is enroute to Minneapolis to settle the matter.

Ruppenthal insists the Flyers have clear claim to Nelson. Kahler, according to Ruppenthal, and all other A. H. A. club owners voted in the affirmative to the proposition to buy all the players of the disbanded Oklahoma City franchise, including Nelson, over to the Flyers at the September meeting. At a recent gathering in Kansas City, Ruppenthal says he was given the right to dispose of the Oklahoma City players as he saw fit.

PITTSBURGH HOCKEY TEAM IN TRAINING

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 3.—Fifteen skaters came to Pittsburgh today—the city's new entry in the international-American Professional Hockey League.

They are the former Detroit Olympics, winners of the last two championships in the old International League.

Coach Donnie Hughes released his players to get acquainted with Pittsburgh today, but said he intends to swing back into practice tomorrow.

AMERICAN TEAM WINS IN SIX-DAY BIKE RACE

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 3.—Cecil Yates and Freddie Zach, American entries, won the six-day bicycle race here last night by a quarter of a lap.

The winners gained a lap early last night and produced the furious thousand-hour jam which continued until the end. On the basis of sprint points, the second-place Belgian team of Bollaert and Triest needed only a quarter of a lap at the end.

JOE PERIK RETAINS TENNIS CLUB TITLE

Successfully defending his 1935 title, Joe Perik won the Carondelet Park tennis championship by defeating John English in the final singles match, 6-1, 6-4, 8-6.

Perik was hard pressed to keep the title as English, after squaring the match with a 6-1 second set victory, gained a 5-2 advantage in the third. But Perik rallied to even the score at six games each and took the next two games to win.

Ghnoy Working Out. Joe Ghnoy, South St. Louis lightweight, is working steadily at the Business Men's gym, getting himself ready for a bout which he hopes will be on the Nov. 17 card.

Joe is never very far out of condition, weighing about 133 pounds and he has hopes of meeting either Abad or Beahuld soon. He was considering placing himself under the management of Sammy Goldmann, Tony Canzonieri's manager, until Tony lost to Ambers.

Ghnoy was rather pleased with the point victory which Eddie Cool scored over Ambers, the new champion, recently, because Joe defeated Cool in Kansas City last year.

WRAY'S COLUMN

We Wreck a Myth.

FOR years the football record book has carried at the head of its record for long forward passes resulting in a touchdown, this No. 1 entry: "Eighty-seven yards, made by Bradbury Robinson of St. Louis University to Jack Schneider, in a game Nov. 3, 1906 with Kansas University at Sportsman's Park St. Louis."

Investigation resulting from a question by a correspondent, has led this writer to the belief that the record is a myth, being unsupported by any evidence obtainable today.

On the contrary, such evidence as was obtained by this writer indicates that the longest pass for a touchdown that day was between 40 and 50 yards, the reports varying.

It Never Happened.

FOR years moderns have looked on this record with awe. The nearest approach to it was a pass by Ernie Muller alleged to have been for 70 yards for a touchdown.

"Whattaman! What an arm! The forward heaves of today probably say to themselves when their present utmost yields only 40 or 50 yards."

But it just didn't happen, according to the facts. We have before us the halftone of a page which appeared in the St. Louis University's year book of 1907.

It shows posed pictures of Robinson passing, Schneider waiting to receive a pass and below them a play from the game with Kansas at Sportsman's Park, Nov. 3, 1906.

The caption over the layout reads: "The Forward Pass: Record in Game, 48 Yards." Below the picture is the following: "Kansas U. vs. St. Louis U., Nov. 3, 1906, at Sportsman's Park. 'Score, Kansas 2, St. Louis 34.'"

Also, the yearbook from which the picture was taken contains a paragraph reading: "The record pass of the season was made, Robinson hurling the ball 48 yards."

No mention is made of a longer pass in the book. The natural conclusion is that the actual pass was only 48 yards and that the 87 yards included a run by Schneider in scoring on the play. Does that clarify the situation, Andy?

Worse and More of It.

WELL, just in case it doesn't, we'll fire the other barrel. We looked up the files of three local newspapers, including the Post-Dispatch, covering the game in question.

From one of these accounts it appears that mention of an 80-yard pass was a typographical mistake. From the others, it is plain that no such pass was thrown that day for a touchdown resulting in a score.

The only place in which mention of a pass of anything like 80 yards occurred in the Globe Democrat running story of the game. In part it reads as follows: "Irwin booted the ball to Lee, who was downed in his tracks. Griggs fumbled, Acker falling on the ball. A forward pass, Schneider to Robinson gained 80 yards. St. Louis scored in the Globe distance by six inches in three tries and the ball went over the K. U. Griggs punted 40 yards to Schneider, who went back eight."

That was usually on the third or fourth down. If it grounded, the rules of that day provided that the ball go to the enemy at the point where it grounded, giving the attacking team the same effect as a 40 or 50 yard kick.

Do you wonder that Cochems had them all standing on their heads that year? He alone of the entire country realized the full possibilities of the rules.

East St. Louis Plays Madison In Feature Game

Madison High School's football schedule team opposes East St. Louis at Parsons Field in East St. Louis Saturday afternoon in the feature of the three-game week-end schedule in the Madison-St. Clair Conference. The winner will move into a first-place tie with Granite City. Granite City is idle this week.

Collinsville is at Alton Friday night in another league game, while Wood River entertains Belleville's Maroons Saturday afternoon. Wood River and Belleville will be seeking their first win in league competition. Each has lost four games.

Last week's standings had East St. Louis and Madison in a tie for first place with three successive victories. However, Collinsville downed the East St. Louis, while Granite City forged to the front with a 6-0 victory over Madison.

East St. Louis is conceded a slight advantage over Madison in this week's feature. The game will be played on East St. Louis' home field and the East Siders' victories in league competition have been more impressive. Madison met its first real competition against Granite City last week, while East St. Louis holds a 31-0 decision over the winners, Harold Harsh and Jimmie Purcell are two Madison backs the Flyers will have to stop.

Collinsville will move into undisputed possession of third place with a victory over Alton, while a defeat would place Alton in a third-place tie with the losers of the East St. Louis-Madison game.

The standings:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Granite City	3	1	.750
East St. Louis	3	1	.750
Madison	3	1	.750
Collinsville	2	2	.500
Alton	2	2	.500
Belleville	1	4	.200
Wood River	0	4	.000

SUPREME COURT
ASKED TO RULE ON COMMODITY LAWConstitutionality of New Deal's Exchange Regulation Act Challenged in Two Cases.ACTIVITY CALLED PURELY LOCALIt Is Contended That Previous Decision Was Swept Away by NRA and Guffey Rulings.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Constitutionality of the 1936 act regulating commodity exchanges—a New Deal law—was challenged in two cases appealed to the Supreme Court yesterday.

Appeals were filed by William S. Moore in behalf of himself and other members of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange and by seven members of the Chicago Board of Trade.

The petitions ask the court to pass on a ruling by the Northern District Court dismissing their litigation and upholding constitutionality of the legislation, which became effective on June 15.

Action by the Supreme Court is sought without awaiting for a decision by the Circuit Court of Appeals. Such procedure is rare, but is sometimes permitted in order to obtain quick action.

"Purely Local Activity."
Both petitions contend the act is unconstitutional because it seeks to regulate a purely local and intrastate activity which does not directly affect nor in any way burden or obstruct interstate commerce.

They say a Supreme Court decision upholding the 1932 Grain Futures Act has been "swept away" by the later rulings upholding NRA and the Guffey Act to regulate the soft coal industry.

The lower court ruled against this contention. It held the legislation was "merely an extension" of the provisions of the 1932 act "with possibly additional regulation and restriction." The 1936 amendments put rice, cotton, mill feeds, butter, eggs and Irish potatoes under the regulatory provisions.

The 1932 measure was held constitutional, Moore says, "on the ground that trading in grain futures, although an intrastate activity, was subject to Federal regulation, because the price of grain futures affected the price of grain shipped in interstate commerce, and the manipulation of prices in the grain futures market obstructed interstate commerce in grain due to the effect of the price of grain futures upon the price of grain in the cash market."

Previous Decision.
The important question presented here, he continues, "is whether the basis of the earlier decision—that a purely local and intrastate activity is subject to Federal control because of conditions existing therein which affected interstate prices—has not been swept away by two recent decisions of this court holding squarely that such price effects are but indirect effects and, therefore, furnish no valid basis for Federal regulation or control of intrastate activities."

Moore challenges the act as it applies to transactions for future delivery in butter, eggs and Irish potatoes.

Provisions applying to grain are questioned in the other petition filed by James E. Bennett & Co., F. S. Lewis & Co., Uhlmann Grain Co., Bartlett Frazier Co., Richard Gambrell Jr., Edwin O. Myers and John H. Fisher.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY LOSES
IN MUNICIPAL ELECTIONSConservatives Victorious in Most

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Conservatives sweeping victories yesterday in the expense of the Laborites in the municipal elections in England and Wales.

Labor, which had a majority on 43 of the 372 city and borough councils, in most instances unsuccessfully defended the gains made in 1933.

Conservatives preached a program of retrenchment and economy in their bid for votes.

The elections were held to replace one-third of the membership of the councils. London boroughs were not involved. The London council retires as a whole every three years and the next election will not be until next year.

The elections commonly are regarded as an index to the electoral mood of thought in national politics, although in many contests purely local affairs constituted the issues.

King Edward Opens Parliament;
Thousands in Rain to See Him; Full Galleries; Peeresses Turned AwayUncrowned Ruler Addresses House of Lords in Crimson Robes of State—Crown Carried on Cushion Ahead of Him.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—King Edward today pledged Great Britain to do all in its power "to further the appeasement of Europe."

Standing in front of the throne in the House of Lords, wearing the heavy state robes of gold-edged crimson velvet, the 42-year-old bachelor King opened the first session of Parliament in his reign and announced that after the coronation in London next May he would go to India to be crowned Emperor.

He also called an imperial conference to meet in London next May.

The state opening was robbed of part of its brilliance by a heavy rain which forced cancellation of the scheduled coronation from Buckingham Palace. In the House of Lords, however, the demand for gallery seats was so great that many peeresses had to be turned down, something unprecedented.

Crowds Stand in Rain.
Thousands of his subjects, jamming the Mall and the Horse Guards' parade in Whitehall, stood in the driving rain to catch a fleeting glimpse of King Edward as he passed in a closed motor car.

It was an uncrowned King who opened Parliament. Not authorized to wear the imperial crown until after the coronation May 5, Edward VIII followed the glittering jeweled emblem of the nation and empire in the procession from the robing room. The emblem, along with the sword of state and the cap of maintenance, were carried before him on cushions by the Marquis of Londonderry, leader of the House of Lords, and other royal attendants.

King Edward, in a firm, resonant voice, launched into the reading of his address from the throne after first affirming his solemn declaration of Protestant faith.

Wedding Britain to the task of placating Europe, the King said the nation would persist in efforts to bring about a meeting of the Locarno Powers and expressed the hope that the London naval agreement of March 25 would become "the basis of international agreement to which all naval Powers will eventually become parties."

He stressed Great Britain's determination to back the Spanish non-intervention committee while at the same time pursuing "every opportunity to mitigate human suffering and loss of life in that unhappy country."

The king's voice was oddly reminiscent of that of his father. Every word was slowly enunciated, clearly and distinctly. The king pronounced "rowl," as did King George.

Text of Address.
The text of King Edward's speech follows:
"My relations with foreign Powers continue to be friendly.
"The policy of the Government continues to be based on membership in the League."
"They desire to see the League strengthened for its work in the pacific settlement of international disputes, and they already have made known at Geneva their proposals for improved working and wider authority of the League."

House of Commons.By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 3.—Sir Henry Curtis-Bennett, distinguished barrister, collapsed while speaking at a dinner in London last night and died while being removed in an ambulance. He was 57 years old.

He was appointed chairman of the London Court of Sessions two weeks ago. Previously, since 1935, he was chairman of the Essex Quarter Sessions.

Curtis-Bennett was called to the bar in 1902. He became known as one of the three greatest English barristers of his time, taking rank with Sir John Simon, now home secretary, and Sir Patrick Hastings.

For a period after the war he represented either the prosecution or defense in practically every important criminal trial in the country.

He sat in the House of Commons as a conservative member for Chelmsford from 1924 to 1926, resigning to devote more time to law. During the war he was in the secret service and interviewed a large number of spies and suspects.

NORMAN THOMAS CAUTIONS

Only on Method.By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, concluded his campaign last night by urging the electorate "not to join a kind of herd stampede and act like men who would rather ride on a band wagon to hell than build a road to heaven."

In a radio address he declared that the campaign in general has been on a disastrously low level of discussion of issues.

"The one clear thing," he said, "is that both major parties and their candidates have expressed an equal devotion to that profit system in which are the roots of our present ills. They only differ about the method of prolonging it."

Thomas, charging that both major parties had displayed "misunderstanding or contempt of real democracy," declared that "in an emergency of economic catastrophe such as is inevitable in a country which had solved no fundamental economic problem, there is literally no power, Federal or State, which can act in accordance with the rulings of the Supreme Court."

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Francisco Cabero, Portuguese delegate to the Spanish non-intervention committee, at sub-committee meeting yesterday termed Russia's proposed blockade of Portuguese ports an "insult.""Portugal will never allow its ports to be blockaded," he said, "the Russian scheme is impossible."
The representatives wrangled for three hours without announcing any decision. Delegates said they had decided to ask their Governments for further instructions.

Chairman, Lord Plymouth, suggested investigators be stationed along all Spanish frontiers to report neutrality violations. Ivan Maisky, Russian Ambassador to London opposed Lord Plymouth's suggestion.

U. S. CUSTOMS JUDGE UPHOLDS

at Export Value.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Judge William A. Grabel of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, upheld yesterday the constitutionality of the Tariff Act of 1930 under which former President Hoover proclaimed a tariff against Japanese rubber-soled canvas shoes.

His decision affirmed a previous ruling by the United States Customs Court against the Japan Import Co.

Judge Graham upheld a decision that under Hoover's proclamation of 1933 the appraisal of rubber-soled shoes imported from Japan should be made on the basis of American prices to equalize the difference between "the cost of production of domestic rubber-soled footwear and foreign production of like or similar footwear."

The importing firm contended the shoes should have been appraised at the export value.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—Gerald L. K. Smith, former organizer of Share-Our-Wealth clubs for the late Huey Long, was released early today from a jail cell in which he was placed after denouncing the State administration in a radio address.

Smith, taken into custody with three others at his hotel room last night, was booked on charges of disturbing the peace, reviling the police and using obscene language. He denied all accusations.

Smith refused a release offered by Mayor Robert S. Maestri but left the jail at the expiration of a two-hour period in accordance with an ordinance concerning persons arrested for city law violations.

"I was put in jail by Maestri but it got so hot for him he called up here and offered me a parole," Smith said. "I refused to accept."

Hearing Set for Midnight.
Arrested with Smith were Preston Decalaz, his secretary, and Henry and Herman Grundmeyer. The Grundmeyers were said to be friends of Smith not officially connected with his activities.

Smith, Decalaz and the Grundmeyers were ordered to appear tomorrow midnight at Police Court to answer to the charges filed by Detective Capt. Alfred Malone. Maximum penalty on conviction of each is a $25 fine.

Smith, in his address at an open air rally, asserted he had evidence of a "hot oil deal" whereby 25,000 barrels of oil would be taken tax-free out of Louisiana.

"When this deal is finally uncovered, it will make the Teapot Dome scandal look like a copper kettle," he said.

Smith has been in Louisiana for several weeks campaigning with former Gov. James A. Noe, close political friend of Senator Long, against what they call the State administration's "betrayal" of Long's principles.

They have centered their attacks on Gov. Richard Leche's support of President Roosevelt, whom Long was fighting at the time of his death, and the imposition of a 2 percent "luxury" sales tax in Louisiana, a form of levy Long had opposed.

Leche was elected last January to a one-year term as governor of the political machine built by Long.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 3.—Former President Hoover told the crowd at a Republican rally last night that "whatever tomorrow's outcome, we'll continue to fight—but we'll win tomorrow."

Describing the campaign as "the most vital since the Civil War," Hoover declared President Roosevelt "has offered no defense of his invasion of the rights of the Constitution, of centralized government, of the reduction of Congress to an aggregation of rubber stamps," but has "indulged only in invective, denunciation and hate."

Hoover said that after he left the White House he had intended to retire to his Palo Alto home to "earn a modest living and look after my dogs," hoping Roosevelt would be successful. "But two years ago we saw the trend," he declared, "we took the alarm, and finally were forced back into the lists to fight for the country we loved."

Shocks Continue 10 Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Nov. 3.—All Eastern Japan was shaken today by an earthquake which aroused the capital from sleep just before dawn and sent city residents scurrying to the streets in night clothes.

The Central Meteorological Observatory said, "No serious damage has been reported so far but after-shocks may continue." There were no casualties reported.

"Fortunately the center of the earthquake was the sea bed," the observatory said. "If it had occurred on land it would have been a disastrous earthquake."

"The tremor was due to activities along the outer earthquake belt of Japan."

The shocks were felt over more than half the mainland. Seismographs recorded the duration of the tremors at 10 minutes and individuals in the earthquake region could feel them for at least six minutes.

Instead of a single, sharp shock, the quake had a circular, lateral motion which rocked many buildings far enough for observers to watch their swaying motion.

The town of Fukushima reported many houses there were broken so badly roof tiles slipped off, shop windows were broken and electric wiring was snapped.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory party.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

"Them Were the Days."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A LOT of guys write in to you and tell all about this "I remember" stuff and wind up with the remark, "Them were the days," but they don't begin to tell all they know or else they do not know much. When the Post-Dispatch had its plant at 210 North Broadway, a good live kid could grab 25 papers in the alley, hop horse cars, peddle his copies for a nickel each and by the time he reached Grand and Natural Bridge on an old bob-tailed Fairground car, he would have sold all his papers and been 50 cents to the good. For two bits he could buy a seat in Chris von der Ahe's bleachers and have two bits to buy soda that was peddled about the stand by handsome young hoodlums who yelled, "Beer, soda, saasparilla and cigars." You got a handful of ice and a spoonful of soda in a little heavy glass mug with a handle and in the event you got into an argument, you could whack your opponent over the head with that heavy mug three or four times before the little old glass would break up. After the game, these same live kids would line up on Grand avenue and, in the event the Browns lost, would shower the visiting team with rocks when they went back to town in Jesse Amos's four-horse bus and Tom Geraghty, the big red-headed cop on the corner, would turn his back and walk down the street.

Now, what I want to know is why don't these other guys who write "I remember" letters tell about that, or don't they remember that part?
Right here and now, I am telling you, you and you everybody in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Alaska, the Aleutian Islands, Kamchatka, Timbuktu, Tibet, the Isle of Capri, the coney world and surrounding territories, "Them Were the Days." JACK LEROY.

For a New Old-Age Pension Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
IT behooves all of our citizens with influence, regardless of politics or religion, to see that the unworkable pension law now on the statute books is repealed at the next session of the Legislature and that one befitting the humanities is enacted. In every section of the country, the sentiment for old-age pensions is overwhelming, and Missouri must join the states that espouse this worthy cause. Beyond a possible doubt, there are men in St. Louis, either on pension or relief, who, with a little help, could encourage would soon stage a "comeback."

JOHN WORTHINGTON.

Suggests a Secretary of Education.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ON your editorial page recently appeared a sincerely analytical article by Dr. R. M. Hutchins, reprinted from Harper's, ostensibly designed to call attention to the weakness of our colleges and universities in their financial relations with students, donors and the public. The term "education" seems to imply a process whereby the educators attempt to develop latent powers, equip the student for life. In the past few years, there have appeared opinions by noted analysts that the achievement in this channel seems to be only failure. So far, however, few if any educators are seriously concerned with a remedy. Their deduction, based on past experience, unfortunately true, is that if "prosperity" returns, the American will return to his fatalistic "why should I worry?" attitude, and then the educational mill will continue to grind out its graduates just as before. Man is supposed to be a civilized creature, and yet there are police systems all over the world. Higher education is supposed to be the adequate leadership that a "policeman" is needed to whom an accounting will have to be shown of time, effort and money consumed. In brief, what this country needs is a Minister of Education.

The Vote Fraud Exposures.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE Ministerial Alliance of metropolitan St. Louis heartily commends the Post-Dispatch for its shining achievement in uncovering the recent vote frauds and for its persistent championing of fair and clean elections. In matters such as this the newspaper is performing its finest public service. The alliance rejoices in such "freedom of the press."

THEODORE S. SMYLYE, President, Ministerial Alliance of Greater St. Louis.

Farmers, or What?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A FAMILY which has spent 30 years on a small farm of 30 acres, paying taxes, and interest on a small loan at the rate of 7 per cent, hearing of Government loans at 5 per cent, applied for a loan. The district manager informed them that loans were made on not less than 60 acres.

Then, his crops, garden and pasture being burned up, this farmer applied for drouth relief work. When he told the woman in charge that he operated only 30 acres of land, he was informed that he could not be classified as a farmer—his farm was too small—therefore he could not be given work.

How do the New Dealers classify those of us who have been doing out an existence on 20, 30 or 40 acres and calling ourselves farmers? There is plenty of work for big farmers, none for small landowners.

"THE BOSS" ACCOLADE.

In a campaign advertisement being published in St. Louis newspapers today, entitled "What About Stark?" and signed by a group of citizens, the Post-Dispatch is quoted as having said on Oct. 17, 1935:

It happens that Maj. Stark is a candidate of unusual promise. Worthy scion of a famous Missouri family, he is the head of the world's most celebrated nurseries; he was graduated with honors from the Naval Academy; his war record is one of distinction; he is a man of large affairs who has shown a deep interest in public service.

The Post-Dispatch said this. It has always spoken highly of Maj. Stark as an individual. However, the foregoing passage was snatched from its context. It is being used to distort an editorial expression of this newspaper.

Only by reading the editorial as a whole can the full measure of this distortion be appreciated. There follows the editorial in full:

THE BOSS' ACCOLADE.

With his characteristic terseness of expression, Boss Tom Pendergast has announced his approval of the candidacy of Maj. Lloyd C. Stark for Governor. "The organization here will support Stark," reads Pendergast's statement. "I am of the opinion he has more independent strength than any other candidate. I think he will make a splendid Governor." The last sentence is a masterpiece of finality. Note that Maj. Stark "will make a splendid Governor." Not "would make," but "will make." In the boss' lexicon, there are no conditional verbs. He recognizes no possibility of successful opposition in the primary or the chance of a Republican victory at the general election.

It would be a mistake to attribute Pendergast's manner of expression to mere boastfulness. Certainly, so far as the nomination is concerned, the boss' accolade is final. What candidate could expect to cope with the fantastic majorities that are rolled up in Kansas City and Jackson County for the Pendergast slate? What candidate but Pendergast could hope for the support of a State machine which, since the election of 1932, has become a part of Pendergast's political domain? And, unless the Democratic trend of the last few years is sharply reversed, what Republican could hope to challenge successfully the power of the boss?

It happens that Maj. Stark is a candidate of unusual promise. Worthy scion of a famous Missouri family, he is the head of one of the world's most celebrated nurseries; he was graduated with honors from the Naval Academy; his war record is one of distinction; he is a man of large affairs who has shown a deep interest in public service.

If the State congratulates itself that the choice of the boss fell on such a man, it may also indulge in the melancholy reflection that Pendergast could have bestowed his approval on some obscure Joe Doak, some creature of the underworld like the late John Latta, or any easy-going political hack that struck the boss' fancy.

In other words, Missouri has arrived at the point where the will of a single man has become controlling. As in all dictatorships, the boss sometimes uses his power benignly, and thus lulls opposition. That does not make it less dangerous or less intolerable that Missouri should permit one person to exercise political dominance over it. We say "permit" advisedly. For Pendergast's reign can be ended whenever the great mass of independent voters are sufficiently aroused against him.

The use being made of two sentences taken from the foregoing editorial is a superb example of campaign deceit.

"THUMB-FINGERS."

A form of campaign contribution which the law has not yet reached is that which nearly every campaign makes to our English vocabulary. Grover Cleveland took "innocuous desuetude" out of the depths of the unabridged. Theodore Roosevelt added "mollycoddle" to everyday speech, and made "Byzantine logothete" familiar for a time. Taft told of the "fuglemen" who lined up voters for his opponent. Harding promised "normalcy."

And at the Auditorium in St. Louis Saturday night, Gov. Landon declared that the locomotive of national industry had stayed in the shop nearly two years, "because the repair work was entrusted to thumb-fingers."

We knew a thumb, or a thimble, but what, in the name of all the Kansas prairie dogs, was a thumb? The dictionary replied, "Thumb—to handle awkwardly," and added abbreviations to the effect that the word was obsolete, except in dialectic English.

But obsolete no longer, dear dictionary. And thanks for the good word, Governor!

WHY BALLOTS ARE CONFUSING.

The article, "How America Votes," printed on this page, is of more than informational interest. Its survey of electoral practices calls attention to an obstacle to intelligent voting—the cumbersome and confusing ballot of horse-blanket size with which most states confront their voters. One factor is the large number of minor elective offices, on which few voters can make an informed choice, and which could be filled more efficiently by appointment. Another is the listing of presidential electors. In New York State, with seven political parties having 47 electors each, this adds 329 names to the ballot, plus 47 blank spaces for "write-in" candidates!

Simon Michelet, president of the National Get-Out-the-Vote Club, is a leading student of election procedure, and has gathered samples of all the ballots being used in the 48 states today. He finds he has "one of the most curious and grotesque collections in the 'literary' world." What impresses Mr. Michelet most in this exhibit is the waste of space and time caused by "the list of useless electors."

The electoral college was initiated on the theory that the general public would not know enough about the presidential candidates to choose intelligently; that this choice should be left to a group of eminent citizens designated by the voters. Modern facilities have changed all that, and now it is the electors who are unknown to the public.

A constitutional amendment abolishing the electoral college is not necessary to eliminate this deadwood from the ballot. Missouri, Illinois and several other states now omit the string of names, and the voters mark crosses opposite the names of their favorite candidates. It is a sensible reform that should be adopted in all the states, whether or not the electoral college is abolished.

BORAH AND NORRIS.

Will Idaho re-elect Borah?

Will Nebraska send Norris back for another term? A nation anxiously waiting for news that will tell it whether Landon is to take Roosevelt's place or the President is to be entrusted with another term will find time to watch for returns from the senatorial races in the Northwest.

Both Borah and Norris are making the political fights of their lives. Borah's battle to stay in the Senate is more important from the public standpoint than his futile attempt to capture the Republican presidential nomination. There never was any question about his defeat last June. Moreover, that defeat did not of itself mean that the Lion of Idaho would lose his forum and the country his vigorous and intelligent participation in public affairs. Defeat today would mean the end of Borah's senatorial career after nearly 30 years of continuous service.

It is hard to imagine the next session of Congress without the dean of the Senate, without his eloquence, his force, his independence. However much we may regret his bid for the Townsend vote in Idaho, we may hope that his State will continue after today to be known for its long-distinguished Senator. Manifestly, it would be a loss to exchange the internationally known Borah for Gov. C. Ben Ross, who, while a colorful politician and successful vote-getter, has been essentially a mountain country rattle-brainer.

Six years ago, Norris was ready to retire to Nebraska to campaign for a one-chamber Legislature—a fight which has since been won. Then came the despicable "Grocer Norris" trickery of his Republican opponents, his return to the arena with his sleeves rolled up and an old-time Norris victory. This year, he deliberately did not file for the primary, and regular Republican and Democratic candidates were nominated for his seat. Friends circulated petitions, with the result that he was placed on the ballot as an independent.

If he wins, the courageous Nebraskan will have achieved a personal triumph of great proportions. How much he means to public life can be judged from the fact that William Allen White, one of the first supporters of Gov. Landon for the Republican nomination, urged his neighbors in Nebraska to mark their ballots for Norris. As the Washington Post observed:

That indorsement should mean more to Senator Norris, personally if not politically, than the one accorded him by President Roosevelt. For it comes from a critical as contrasted with an emotional mind; from one who is above the battle of party and interested only in the progress of democracy under the aegis of good government.

Still another Senator from the Northwest whose re-election would serve the public interest is McNary of Oregon, the minority leader. Not a bitter partisan in any sense of the term, this quiet, unassuming Senator has been a useful worker for progressive causes in Congress for 18 years.

However the presidential race turns out, it will be unfortunate if the present Democratic membership in the Senate is increased. When the last session closed, the Republican ranks had dwindled to 23—a minority literally overwhelmed by the 70 Democrats. Democratic gains today would add to the topheavy division resulting from the cumulative Democratic gains of 1930, 1932 and 1934.

An urgent need of the next two years will be a strong deliberative Congress. Indications of what we can expect may be read in the returns from 36 senatorial races being decided today.

It looks as if the Kansas City ghost voters will give that city a spirited election.

ARMED PEACE.

Premier Mussolini, in his address at Milan, made unmistakably plain his attitude toward safeguarding world peace. Can it be done by disarmament? No, for that is an "illusion"; for all the nations to disarm together is "impossible and absurd." Can it be done by collective security? No; it "never existed, does not exist, will never exist," for no virile people will "confide its destiny to uncertain hands of third persons." As for the League of Nations, that is "based on an absurdity"; the principle of absolute juridical parity among all states.

How, then, would the Italian dictator avert war? His prescription is bluntly specific: "Armed peace." A sweeping program of armaments, acceleration of all productive energies of the nation, an alert outlook and a national determination to spring as one man at any enemy that appears.

No one can say that Mussolini is not a realist. The path he charts for his people is that along which they are already marching, and not alone, but with all the other nations as well. Some peoples retain a vestige of faith in arms reduction, in collective security, in the League, but all put their primary trust in greater and ever-greater armaments. To this dangerous position of "armed peace" has the world fallen within 18 years after the "war to end war."

Says the Literary Digest, talking to itself: "They're all out of step but Jim."

ABUSING FELIX FRANKFURTER.

There has been no more unfounded charge in the campaign than the frequent condemnation of Felix Frankfurter of Harvard as a Communist, opponent of the Supreme Court and would-be destroyer of the Constitution.

One of the best-informed authorities on the Supreme Court and the Constitution, this teacher of the law is a staunch believer in constitutional government, as evidenced by his many writings and addresses. If he has been an adviser to President Roosevelt on some matters, it is clearly evident to anyone who knows what Prof. Frankfurter believes that his counsel has not always been followed.

Those who denounce Prof. Frankfurter today seem to have forgotten that, only a relatively short time ago, Joseph B. Ely, then Governor, did his best to persuade Prof. Frankfurter to accept appointment as a Judge of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. They seem to have forgotten, too, that with virtually the whole of the American teaching profession to draw on, Oxford recently called him to its faculty for a year as a superior representative of American life and scholarship.

The calumny directed at Felix Frankfurter discredits those who are responsible for it far more than it harms him.

Ballots are all full and a yard wide.

NOW ON THE RECEIVING END.

How America Votes

Prior to adoption of secret ballot, voter announced his choice aloud before crowd in polling place; now he gets from one to 11 blanks, some the size of a newspaper page, and has up to 10 minutes to mark them; state regulations vary widely on almost all details; polls close at 4 p. m. in Kentucky, at 9 in New York.

From a Bulletin of the National Geographic Society.

THE ballot is relatively a newcomer in much of the United States. Voting vocally instead of on paper persisted in some districts long after the founding of the nation. The voter announced his choice aloud to a bullying crowd around the election judges, to be greeted with cheers and jeers. Then, in 1838, Massachusetts adopted the Australian ballot. It was a method, originating in Australia, of marking an official ticket unobserved in a booth. Such privacy for expression of opinion was at first criticized as less courageous than the public, noisy "manly vote." The Australian ballot was adopted by Missouri as recently as 1921, by North Carolina in 1929.

The ballot has aged considerably and has changed beyond recognition since George Washington was proclaimed first in the polls of his countrymen. Even now, no one will be permitted to vote for President on Nov. 3, although 46,000,000 voters may do their best. Yet some would be startled if reminded that they are voting instead for electors, 531 of them, who will go through the formality of electing the President later.

Many voters will mark a ballot which does not even bear the names of the candidates for whom they are voting. In a number of states, it is legal to omit the names of the electors. This shortens the ballot by as many names as each state has representatives in both houses in Congress.

The streamlined ticket for unnamed electors has been welcomed in at least nine states. Their ranks recently have been joined by 10. Virginia gives you two and a half, Kentucky three. Where voting machines are used, the time is usually one minute. Since there is no chance for deep study in the polling booth, California and New Jersey mail the voter a sample ballot to ponder over in advance. Many state laws require publication in newspapers. Two early-ballot states have been known to furnish sample ballots as appetizers to high school students.

When marked and folded, the ballot is dropped through a slit in the locked ballot box. This "box" is a canvas pouch in Wyoming, and in Oregon may be made of leather. Kentucky requires two locks of different pattern on it, New Jersey three. New Jersey uses a ballot box with glass sides.

Lasting 12 hours in most states, election day has 15 voting hours in New York State. It opens at 5:30 a. m. in Ohio, closes at 4 p. m. in Kentucky, and 9 o'clock in Minnesota and New York.

Let the artistic voter beware, however, when it comes to marking ballots. Votes marked in red may be thrown out. Blue-penciling the ballot may make it void, except in Nebraska, Michigan and a few other states. New York sternly demands black lead. Indelible pencil is required in Minnesota and Oregon. Ink is outlawed in most states, but Colorado accepts ink only. Rubber-stamp voting is required in California, where cross-marks are filled in by this method.

Black or blue, take your pencil in hand and your troubles are only beginning. In Texas and Virginia, for instance, candidates are all voted against except those you favor, and the ballot is marked by scratching. In other states, you tag the name of your choice with a cross-mark in an adjacent circle. Erasure, tears and, in Delaware, the writing in of a name, are grounds for discarding ballots.

Some states provide a "party circle" in which a cross-mark can signify the voter's acceptance of a straight party ticket. In some states, a voter can indicate his second and third choices, in case the best man doesn't win.

Names of candidates may be ranged in a column for each party; some states require that all candidates for one office be clustered together. To track down your preference over the broad ballot, most states allow you five minutes, while California and Maine are in the generous group allowing 10. Virginia gives you two and a half, Kentucky three. Where voting machines are used, the time is usually one minute. Since there is no chance for deep study in the polling booth, California and New Jersey mail the voter a sample ballot to ponder over in advance. Many state laws require publication in newspapers. Two early-ballot states have been known to furnish sample ballots as appetizers to high school students.

When marked and folded, the ballot is dropped through a slit in the locked ballot box. This "box" is a canvas pouch in Wyoming, and in Oregon may be made of leather. Kentucky requires two locks of different pattern on it, New Jersey three. New Jersey uses a ballot box with glass sides.

Lasting 12 hours in most states, election day has 15 voting hours in New York State. It opens at 5:30 a. m. in Ohio, closes at 4 p. m. in Kentucky, and 9 o'clock in Minnesota and New York.

SUBSTANTIAL FORECAST.

THE Kahiras editors are worrying with straw with bones or rubber shoes. Polls are hard to read and when you've read them, you don't know how much truth is back of them.

As for this affiant, he is willing to rest his expectations until Nov. 4 upon the prophecies of the president of the American Fortune Tellers' Association, who declares positively that President Roosevelt will be elected unless Gov. Landon is able to get more votes than the President.

There, men and brethren, is something substantial, something to put your teeth in. We know where we are now and we stand on that!

Calling the Roll

From the New York Sun.

A READER of the Sun suggests that a list of the more prominent Democrats who have bolted the Democratic nominees for President in 1936 would be useful and informative. A partial list is subjoined:

John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate for President in 1924.
Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York and the Democratic candidate for President in 1928.
James A. Reed, former Democratic Senator from Missouri.
Joseph B. Ely, former Democratic Governor of Massachusetts.

Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State in the administration of Woodrow Wilson.
Lewis W. Douglas, former Democratic Representative and Director of the Budget in the early days of the Roosevelt administration.

Raymond V. Ingersoll, president of the Borough of Brooklyn.
Henry Breckinridge, Assistant Secretary of War in the Wilson administration.
James E. Finegan, Democratic president of the New York Municipal Civil Service Commission.

T. Jefferson Coolidge, Under-Secretary of the Treasury in the early days of the Roosevelt administration.
Samuel Seabury, former Justice of the New York Supreme Court, former Associate Justice of the New York Court of Appeals and Democratic candidate for Governor of New York in 1916.

Daniel F. Cohalan, former Justice of the New York Supreme Court.
Francis X. Hurley, former Democratic State Auditor of Massachusetts.

William R. Pattangall, for years prominent in the Democratic party of Maine, former Chief Justice of Maine's Supreme Court.
John M. Callahan, Democratic candidate for Senator from Wisconsin in 1934.

This is not an exhaustive list. It might be expanded to include the names of Democrats who have taken a less active part in politics but who are no less determined that the men named above to fight against the New Deal. The names listed are every one so well known and the mere mention of their names gives him a list which goes far to define the Democratic bolt of 1936.

QUAINT MISSOURI NAMES.

WE noticed in a neighbor paper of last week reference to a few of the quaint names of places in Washington County, among which were Happy Hollow, Tiff, Bessie and others which the editor thought unusual and amusing. The list was half long enough nor amusing enough. We give him a list which contains some of the names as these: Brushy Run, Calico Branch, Saddle-Bags Creek, Turkey Branch, Fox Foot, Paw Paw Patch, Hard Scrabble, Sum Trot, Goose Creek, Bear Wallow, Digging, Indian Creek, Lost Creek, etc.

Reading over the list, we can readily trace the origin. Some were undoubtedly coined in the very hardships of the pioneers. Others were named because of their relation to the lives and the work of the settlers and others came into being according to the use and situation. Nearly all go back to the wild life of early settlers; some are remnants of the days of the Indians and the savage beasts of the forest.

A few of these places have been endowed with prettier, if less quaint and unusual names, but the thing that makes them interesting is the fact that in their very names, by phrasing, they tell a story of the very lives of the pioneers.

There are many who doubt the wisdom of the system laid down in the Security Act, who are not at all satisfied with the counter-proposals. Parts of the Twentieth Fund, for instance, who put the brief upon which most Governor's criticisms of the act were based, do not agree with the conclusions and what he has drawn from brief.

There are many who are convinced that the whole relief situation needs overhauling, nevertheless not prepared to the relief problem without consideration to the states, wonder just how the reading would be made. On the whole, they would like more expert opinion.

Likewise, there are many who vote for the President with the feeling of extreme uneasiness as to what they are voting for. Many will vote for him in belief that the industrial pie attempts of the NRA have been abandoned. But James Roosevelt, and the President's remarks, and the President's answer to the Governor's question, have somewhat quieted them. Others of the Left, in the firm belief that the New Deal will only begin President's re-election.

The way in which the question has been handled has not credit to either party, even sheer demagoguery. Referring to the last-minute campaign of the Rep and the President's reply, Wilkes-Barre. The former callously distasteful manner.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Election Day

Today the people of the United States vote for a President, for Governors and for some of the members of Congress, and thereby attempt to indicate what course they desire policy to take in the next four years.

Many who are voting for President Roosevelt on the basis of the balance sheet nevertheless hope that he will just squeak in—and save a vigorous opposition during the next four years. Except for the new partisans, few want to give a blanket endorsement to the whole of the New Deal. This holds for both the Right and the Left.

Others are voting for Gov. Landon in the expressed hope that a Congress still largely Democratic will prevent him from carrying through all of the platform to which he has expressed his 100 per cent allegiance.

The slipshod and undemocratic way in which party platforms are framed and candidates selected, without any real debate or attempt to establish a consensus of considered party opinion, plus the habit of incorporating in the platforms not only expressions of general policy but commitments to specific action, is partly responsible for these reservations.

There are many people who would like to vote for Gov. Landon on his budget policy, for instance, who do not want, at the same time, to vote for the repeal of the 14 trade agreements negotiated by Mr. Hull. There are many who doubt the wisdom of the system of financing laid down in the Social Security Act, who are nevertheless not at all satisfied with the Governor's counter-proposals. The experts of the Twentieth Century Fund, for instance, who furnished the brief upon which most of the Governor's criticisms of the present act were based, do not agree at all with the conclusions and policy which he has drawn from that brief.

Likewise, there are many who will vote for the President with a sinking feeling of extreme uncertainty as to what they are voting for. Many will vote for him in the belief that the industrial price control attempts of the NRA have been abandoned, and the President's failure to answer the Governor's challenge on this and other specific questions, have somewhat shaken their faith. Others of the Left are voting in the first belief that the New Deal will only begin with the President's re-election.

The way in which the question of social security has been handled is a credit to either party, and has been a credit to the nation. It is a credit to the last-minute pay-entire campaign of the Republicans and the President's reply to it at Wilkes-Barre. The former is a peculiarly distasteful manner of influencing voters, since it suggests direct economic pressure, and the attempt to present contributory insurance as Government dock of pay—a kind of vicious attempt at Government exploitation—is poppycock. Probably the workers know it.

On the other hand, the President's explanation to the workers that on the old-age pension scheme the workers get $2 for every $1 that they invest, and that unemployment insurance will be borne exclusively by the employers, was misleading and dangerous.

One of the worst things that this administration has done, something which cannot be too roundly denounced, has been to create the impression among the workers and the people with moderate incomes that the support of a universal system of generous public relief, plus old-age pensions, public care for youth, and unemployment insurance, can be paid for by the rich. It is completely impossible, for the simple reason that there is not enough income among the rich, even if it were entirely taxed away.

Although our direct taxation of income does not yet begin to approximate the taxation which is borne in all countries where comprehensive social security exists—England, for instance—we already tax the very highest brackets as much as the traffic will bear, if we are not going in for expropriation. In some cases, it reaches 78 per cent, and that exceeds anything done in England.

Government aid to the indigent, the young, the old and the unemployed will have to be paid by all of the people of the United States who have any surplus, and a large share of it will have to come out of incomes between $2500 and $25,000, because that is where the national income lies which has not yet been seriously tapped by taxation.

Forty-five per cent of the total national income is distributed to nearly half the population in the form of incomes below $2000 and cannot be tapped without a direct assault on subsistence. Only 13 per cent of it is paid out in incomes over $25,000, and this is already heavily taxed, although the income between $25,000 and $50,000 could stand increased strain.

But 30 per cent of the total national income is in the hands of the fairly secure or comfortably well-to-do, and for any system of social security they will certainly have to pay, however much the tax may be camouflaged. Social security provisions are ways of affecting a redistribution of income to the lower half of the population. They are precisely that. And it is only fair to present the people with realities.

The hesitancy of opinion will have excellent results if the people who cast their votes today remember their reservations when the campaign is over. If they remember them during the next four years. And if they seek through constant watchfulness to see that these reservations are registered with their representatives in Congress. We are electing neither a personal dictatorship nor a party or policy dictatorship. We are electing a Congress and a government responsible to public opinion.

GIRL WHO ADVISED LINCOLN TO GROW BEARD DIES AT 88

Mrs. Grace Bedell Billings of Delphos, Kan., Had Said She Believed Lincoln Would Grow a Beard.

By the Associated Press.
DELPHOS, Kan., Nov. 3.—Mrs. Grace Bedell Billings, 88 years old, who as a girl was reputed to have induced Abraham Lincoln to grow a beard, died yesterday.

During the election campaign of 1860, Mrs. Billings, then an 11-year-old girl living in Westfield, N. Y., noticed some election poster portraits of Lincoln.

"Shocked" as she described it by his smooth-shaven face, she wrote this letter to the Republican presidential nominee: "Dear Mr. Lincoln: I think you would look better with whiskers. Two of my brothers are Republicans, two are Democrats. I think I could get my Democratic brothers to vote for you if you were a beard. The rail fence around your picture in the poster is very pretty. Have you any little girls?"

Four days later, she received this answer from Lincoln:

"My dear Grace Bedell: Your very agreeable letter of the 15th received. I regret to say I have no little girl. I have three sons, one 17 years old, one 9 and one 7. Speaking of whiskers, don't you think people would call it a silly affectation if I should begin wearing whiskers?"

"I really believe I caused Mr. Lincoln to grow a beard," Mrs. Billings said in an interview several years ago.

She said that in February after his election, Lincoln stopped at Westfield, and asked her to come forward.

"He climbed down and sat down with me on the edge of the station platform," she recalled.

"Gracie, he said, 'look at my whiskers. I have been growing them since I was a boy. I kissed me. I never saw him again.'"

Queen Mother Absent.

The Queen Mother Mary, not participating in the opening of Parliament for the first time in a quarter of a century, stood at a window of Marlborough House as the King's car passed by in the rain on its way to the session. She is still suffering from a cold.

King Edward glanced at the window, saw his mother and waved the cocked hat he held in his right hand. Queen Mary smiled, and withdrew from the window.

The King returned to Buckingham Palace at 12:35 p. m. All along the route of the 11-minute journey, cheering crowds greeted him in the rain.

Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, American-born friend of the King, did not attend the opening of Parliament.

Shortly before King Edward left Buckingham Palace, a basket of flowers four feet high was delivered to the American divorcee at her Cumberland Terrace home. Most of the flowers were white chrysanthemums, mingled with blossoms of pink and red hue, offset by sprays of autumn leaves. Later, a vase bearing the royal warrant delivered soft drinks to the Simpson home.

PRINCE BERNHARD ACCEPTED BY DUTCH

Fiance of Princess Juliana Alays Suspicion That He Has Nazi Ties.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 3.—In two appearances, Prince Bernhard von Lippe-Biesterfeld whose marriage to Crown Princess Juliana of Holland is expected to take place in January, apparently has allayed any Dutch political suspicions of his German ties.

After the appearances the Prince went to the movies three times to see his own performances in news reels. Princess Juliana went with him.

His first appearance was a delicate task, and the Prince was aware of it. Queen Wilhelmina announced the engagement Sept. 5. At first the Dutch were divided in their opinion. Nobody knew the Prince or had heard of him. He was, above all, a German. If he had Nazi connections he would have been unpopular. Political leaders were alarmed.

That same day the Dutch got their first glimpse of the future prince-consort when he rolled up before the old palace in the Noordeinde, the simple Hague street with its simple shops, in his two-seater.

Prince Carries It Off.

A tall long-legged young man hopped from the car, kissed Queen Wilhelmina's cheek and then her hand. Then he flashed his best smile at the gaping Dutch crowd. He was tall, slender, brown-haired, blue-eyed, brown-haired.

A ripple of applause came from the citizens. The Prince had won round one.

The next day the Prince, a good linguist, made a radio broadcast throughout Holland and the Dutch colonies. First the Queen spoke, then Princess Juliana, then the Prince himself. He was simple, direct and he promised to study Holland life thoroughly and become a good Dutchman.

The future of the royal house is dependent on Princess Juliana's marriage, and difficult questions might arise if there were no success to the throne of Orange-Nassau.

Today Prince Benno, as he is known to friends, is buying himself in the head office of the Dutch Trading Co. here, learning from the ground up. The company has big offices, especially in the Dutch Indies.

To Get $130,000 a Year.

On his marriage to Princess Juliana he will receive an income of 200,000 guilders (about $130,000) a year. Before he met the Princess he was working as a clerk in the Dutch office of the German dye trust.

His mother, Princess Armgard Kunigunde of Lippe-Biesterfeld, was pleased to hear of the engagement.

Princess Juliana, she said: "With her womanly charm and her other qualities she will be the best possible daughter-in-law."

Of her son: "He wanted to earn his own living and that was an idea of which I very much approved. Princes must work nowadays."

The Prince's family was founded in 1123 by another Prince Bernhard who established a strong castle near Lippstadt. In 1150 Detmold fell under its sway and Biesterfeld in 1322. The dynasty abdicated at the time of the 1918 German revolution.

Princess Juliana was born at Jena, June 29, 1911. He has a degree in law and studied at the universities of Lausanne, Munich and Berlin.

He speaks English, French and Spanish fluently, and is interested in outdoor sports.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Hobbs, formerly of Goodwater, Ala., are here visiting Mr. Hobbs' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hobbs, 6385 Wydown boulevard. Mr. Hobbs will be associated with his uncle here in business. After Nov. 15 they will live at the Monticello apartments.

Miss Rose Louise Hochdoerfer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Anthony A. Hochdoerfer, 902 Dover place, and John Natz Jr., were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Cecilia's Church, by the Rev. E. J. Denton.

The bride was gowned in egg-shell moire, with a fitted basque and a button to the waist. Her full skirt fell into a long train. The gown had leg-of-mutton sleeves, fitted tight at the wrist with small buttons. Mrs. Natz's veil of egg-shell tulle fell in two layers from a tiara of tulle. Her bridal bouquet was of bouvardia.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Arnold H. Troppe, and the bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Kurgan, Miss Lovetta Novy, and Miss Jean Langen, wore dresses made like that of the bride, with short leg-of-mutton sleeves and floor length skirts. Mrs. Foppe wore May wine moire, while the bridesmaids were dressed in Du-berry moire, and all wore Mary Queen of Scots hats of May wine velvet with feather tips of lighter shade in front. All carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and button asters in shades blending with their dresses, and fastened with matching ribbons. The flower girl, Marie Dorothy Zieroff, was dressed like the bridesmaids and carried button asters.

Mrs. Natz, the bridegroom's mother, wore black sheer trimmed with velvet and a corsage of gardenias.

The altar of the church was banked in greens with ferns and palms on each side. On the altar were white candles and baskets of white cut flowers.

Following the wedding, a breakfast was served at the Bevo Mill. Mr. Natz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Natz, 4021 St. Avenue. Joseph Fuchs was best man, and John Biebler and George Windler ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Natz have left for a trip to New Orleans, Galveston and Dallas, after which they will live with the bride's father.

Arrangements have been completed for a carnival to be given by the St. Louis Section National Council of Jewish Women tomorrow and Thursday, at the Field House of Washington University for the benefit of the Council House, a recreation center for underprivileged children. The carnival will open at 11 o'clock in the morning and last until 11 at night.

Additional chairmen of the various booths are: Mrs. Meyer Myerson, gifts; Mrs. Davis Feinstein and Mrs. Felix Dreyer, co-chairman, groceries; Mrs. Louis Shifrin, milk bar; Mrs. Earl Rosen, candy; Mrs. Arthur M. Freund and Mrs. Albert Freund, co-chairman, restaurant; Mrs. Sidney Cook, coffee; Mrs. Max Fendler, flowers and plants; Mrs. Harry Aloe, ties; Mrs. Irving Edison, chairman and Mrs. Sam Edison, co-chairman, hosiery; Mrs. Eugene Well, aprons and uniforms; Mrs. Louis Rothschild, soft drinks; Mrs. Milton Landau, cigarettes; Mrs. Edwin Neisser, cashier; Mrs. Anna May, check room; Mrs. David Wohl, silver. Mrs. Fred Z. Salomon, who organized the jewelry booth, is unable to assume charge because of illness.

MISSOURI NAMES.

In a neighbor paper of last week to a few of the quality in Washington County, are Happy Hollow, Tiff, Rose, which the editor thought amusing enough. The list was Washington County could contain such quaint names as Calico Branch, Bushy Run, Calico Branch, Patch, Hard Scrabble, Fox Creek, Bear Wallow, Goose Creek, Lost Creek, etc. The list, we can readily trace were undoubtedly conceived ships of the pioneers. Others are of their relation to the work of the settlers and still to being according to the n

A Personal Question

What Was the Story Behind That Personal Want Ad?

"I need you, come at once," was the message as it appeared in the Post-Dispatch Personal Want Ad Column. It was addressed to a man. What was the Story? Had he gone and was he being recalled, or had someone lost his address? When he was needed the personal column in the Post-Dispatch afforded a means of reaching him.

If the happy results behind personal want ads could be gathered some of these human interest stories would indeed "be stranger than fiction." Some of these tell of separations due to misunderstandings, some call for persons needed as witnesses, of lost relatives wanted to close estates or to clear titles to property, and of children separated when young endeavoring to locate each other in after years.

The Personal Column in the Post-Dispatch is devoted to purely personal advertisements and many readers with imagination enjoy reading them for the stories they suggest.

LAGUARDIA SAYS ROOSEVELT IS BEST FOR PROGRESSIVES

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, speaking as a Progressive, last night urged the reelection of President Roosevelt because "he best represents the views, the principles and the legislation which we, as progressives of this country, have stood for and fought for during the past quarter of a century."

Speaking in behalf of the American Labor party in New York State over the radio, LaGuardia explained, "I am not mad at anybody, have no private or political grudge. I am not a Democrat. I have nothing in common with the political machine in my city."

He said that, of the progressive measures enacted into the law, the Security Act of the President is perhaps the most outstanding. The opposition to this beneficial measure is not only surprising but shocking in its degradation."

WHAT ABOUT STARK?

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch on October 17, 1935, said:

"It happens that Major Stark is a candidate of unusual promise. Worthy scion of a famous Missouri family, he is the head of the world's most celebrated nurseries; he was graduated with honors from the Naval Academy; his war record is one of distinction; he is a man of large affairs who has shown a deep interest in public service."

On the Same Date the St. Louis Star-Times Had the Following to Say:

"Major Stark is unquestionably the Democratic Party's best bet among all the governorship aspirants. If he is nominated and elected, Pendergast nor anyone else can use him to the disadvantage of the state."

Lloyd C. Stark's statement:

"I shall go into office without having made a promise to any individual, group or organization, other than to give each and everyone a fair deal."

We concur in the above statements and heartily recommend Lloyd C. Stark for governor.

Trustees Find No Irregularities in Management.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—George I. Haight and Walter J. Cummings, trustees for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad, told Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday their investigation had failed to disclose irregularities in the management of the road prior to institution of reorganization proceedings.

The investigation was made by court order. Henry A. Scammon, former president, is also a trustee but did not join in the report, since his management was investigated.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

PACKAGE COLLECTING FIRM

HELD TO BE 'INTERSTATE'

U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Finds It Is Subject to Federal Labor Board Rulings.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that a firm engaged in collecting and sorting packages of merchandise bound for interstate transportation was subject to Federal regulation.

The decision was in the case of the National New York Packing & Shipping Co., which consolidates and arranges for transportation merchandise bought from New York firms by persons from out of town.

The company had denied that the regional labor board had jurisdiction over it in the case of the discharge of five employees, allegedly in violation of the National Labor Relations Act.

Upholding an order by the labor board for the company to reinstate the employees, the court said: "there is a continuity in transit from seller to buyer in which the respondent participates. The transitory stop does not break the interstate journey. It is merely a halt as a convenient stop in getting to its final destination."

REED SAYS ROOSEVELT MEANS CHAINS FOR ALL

Asserts President Is First Executive to Say He Wanted to Be Master.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3.—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, head of the National Jeffersonian Democrats, closed his anti-New Deal campaign last night with a radio address in which he asserted "a vote for Mr. Roosevelt is a vote for governmental chains upon every citizen of the United States."

Reed spoke over radio stations KMBC in Kansas City and KMOX in St. Louis.

"This New Deal," he said, "has from first to last, been an attack upon our constitution, upon our form of government, upon individual liberty, and in place of that civilization which we have created, its purpose is to set up a government which regulates and controls and dictates to every person in the United States."

Reed said President Roosevelt in his Madison Square Garden speech Saturday night lifted his mask and declared for continuance of his policies.

A Hitler Phrase.

"Roosevelt," he said, "is the first President who ever declared he wanted to be master. That is a new phrase in the vocabulary of Presidents. It belongs to the decrees of Hitler, but Hitler has too much sense to use it that way. Throughout his speech, referring to the acts of his administration, Roosevelt declares for their continuance and, in substance, for their expansion."

Reed said the President was "particularly vicious in his attacks upon those who have criticized the social security act."

"Mr. Roosevelt's tirade against and abuse of business on Saturday night," he said, "had for its special reason the fact that many business concerns have notified their employees that after the first of the year they will be obliged to take a part of their pay and send it to the government in the form of a tax levied on labor, and that at the same time a tax is laid upon the employer because he employs labor."

"Simply Explained Law."

"I have not heard of a single employer who has made any threat to labor or attempted to apply any coercion. They have simply told their employees what Roosevelt's law does to them. They not only have the constitutional right, but they have the moral duty to do that identical thing."

"Why does Mr. Roosevelt object to the truth being known? So far as I am aware, all that any employer has done is to advise labor the meaning of the law Mr. Roosevelt dictated and had passed."

"The last man in the world who ought to talk about coercion or influence by employers is Roosevelt. He has sent thousands of millions of dollars into the various States and a vast majority of it has been put into the hands of faithful Roosevelt adherents, and the workers have been told in no uncertain terms that their employment will cease if Landon is elected."

"Roosevelt himself has gone into States where vast sums were to be spent and has assured the people that if re-elected those projects will be carried out."

"In our own State, four or five thousand of the WPA workers were marched to the polls in the single City of St. Joseph in order to carry an election there."

LARGER COMMUNITY CHESTS

19 Cities Report Increase of 5% Per. Over Last Year.

Community chests in other cities have received more liberal contributions this year than in former years, it was said yesterday by Fred L. English, general chairman of the fifth annual United Charities campaign.

He made a public report that 19 cities which have completed their campaigns obtained contributions 5% per cent larger than last year. Most of the campaigns were for higher goals than last year, but on the whole they were 97.3 per cent successful, English said.

Mussolini's Definition.

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright, 1936.)

TODAY tens of millions at the polls will express their political opinions. It's a great deal of trouble, every four years; the English do it more simply, but it seems the only way for this country.

There is always something cheerful to be said. After today you will hear few political speeches for some time.

Dr. Katsuzo Nishi, said to give health advice to the Japanese imperial family, advises those who would live to 120, "Lie on your back and oscillate the whole body as a gold fish might."

The big news is that Japan has the champion egg-laying Leghorn hen of the whole world, property of a Japanese farmer, Kichi Fujikura. The marvelous hen laid 361 eggs in 12 hours less than 365 days.

In an important speech at Milan, Mussolini defines Bolshevism and Communism as follows: "What is called Bolshevism and Communism is today—listen well to me—only super-capitalism of a state carried to its most ferocious extreme."

This makes the poor "super-capitalist" responsible for Stalin, whom he thought he hated.

The League of Nations might as well be killed off, since it no longer means anything, says Mussolini, and adds, "It is necessary to destroy everything built on Woodrow Wilson's ideologies."

Of many admirable things said in the churches last Sunday, the best was said by the Rev. Hubert Stanley Wood, suggesting that churches stop calling themselves church of the "heavenly rest" and substitute "ACTION" for "rest."

A sad accident that cost the life of a 6-month-old baby should be mentioned to warn fathers and mothers. In the evening Mrs. Klein went to a moving picture.

A Sauce for Fish
A delicious sauce for broiled fish can be made by mixing together the juice and grated rind of one lemon, two tablespoons sugar and the well beaten yolks of two eggs.

Artichokes, Hollandaise Sauce
Remove stems, bottom leaves and the outside tough leaves of the artichokes. Allow one artichoke to each person. Wash well and boil until tender in salted water to which a pinch of carbonate of soda has been added to preserve the color.

Will Keep It Clean
When using cards from a recipe file, clamp a paper fastener over the edge of the card and hang the card conveniently before you above the work table. It will keep clean and yet be handy to read.

IN LOVE WITH A T-MAN

A New Serial Story

By BOB EDEN

CHAPTER TWO.

DEVILIN's sedan was a small, sturdy one, painted an inconspicuous tan. In town it could idle down to a modest 25 or 30 miles an hour, but on the open road it flew along at 60 and 65 easily, hardly a tremor in its solid steel, especially made body.

In the front seat were Carol and Devilin, and in the back, one large wardrobe case and one small overnight case.

"Studied the pictures carefully?" Paul Devilin asked, rounding a curve at a goodly speed.

The girl looked again at the three pictures she held in her hand. The three Oliviers, Devilin had called them when he handed them to her.

Well, she was quite familiar by this time with every feature of the three Oliviers, because she had been studying them for 15 minutes, each face separately and then held together.

The woman, although she didn't look much more than a girl, was Mrs. Lawrence Oliver, Margaret Oliver.

A pretty babyish face, babyish features, soft features, a droop to the tiny mouth, and a wistful look in her eyes which Devilin told Carol were brown.

Nicholas Oliver, "Nick," was represented by the third picture, clearly marked as the others were.

Carol tried to find a resemblance between the two brothers, but couldn't. Once she thought she saw it in the eyes, and the breadth of the cheekbones, but later she decided it was only imagination and that if Mr. Devilin hadn't told her they were brothers she wouldn't have guessed it.

Nick Oliver's face was a strong one, each feature strongly defined, the nose straight and firm, the lips straight and firm, the chin, too, firm, too large, making the lower part of Nick's face too heavy.

"Thirty-one," he answered, which told her how badly she had guessed Nick's age.

There were strong lines on his face, lines that went clear and straight from his rather wide nostrils to the corners of his mouth.

Lines under his eyes, and two furrows on his forehead, more lines that went from the corners of his eyes. Lawrence Oliver she had thought was handsome, Nick Oliver—she didn't know.

Certainly in a room he would stand out more than his brother for his definite personality and force of character—by handsome.

"It's Nick, of course," Devilin explained, "who is the leader. You must have guessed that."

Carol had. There was leadership all over Nick's face, on his eyes, in his mouth, in every line of his face.

"The others don't count. I want them, too, but I want Nick more, because he must be the brains of the gang. He's got to be the brains or I'm all wrong and I should be digging ditches instead of doing Federal investigating. He's the smart one of the Oliver family. Now put the pictures back in the pocket of the car."

IT WAS NEARLY TRAIN TIME AND CAROL WAS SHIVERING IN FEAR OF WHAT THE NEXT FEW HOURS MIGHT BRING FORTH. BUT SHE LOOKED UP AT DEVILIN AND SMILED. FOR HIS SAKE SHE HAD AGREED TO UNDERTAKE A DANGEROUS SECRET SERVICE ASSIGNMENT. SHE WOULD NOT FALTER NOW.

Carol put the pictures away. "Not getting cold feet already, are you?"

"Oh, no," she replied as firmly as she could, but she found herself wondering whether Nick would be as formidable a person as she found him in his picture.

She had found herself hoping, too, that he would be away during her visit at the Oliver house. Devilin blasted that unspoken hope immediately.

"Nick is the one you'll have to watch, and watch carefully, because he lives at the house, too. He's there most of the time."

"Besides Nick and the Larry Oliviers, there are two servants in the house, a man named Sam Boles, and his wife, Nora. Sam acts as butler and Nora as cook. Whether they are members of the gang, too, I don't know, but I imagine so. Have you got the household straight?"

"The three Oliviers, Sam and Nora Boles."

"Now, then, when you are in the house, I want certain things done if you're able to do them. If you're not, I'm hoping you are that's all. I want you to get into Nick Oliver's bedroom and I want you to go through his desk, look through any papers you find there—papers, names. Any names you find, any addresses, any telephone numbers, local or otherwise. I also want you to look on the desk for a memo pad which may be near the telephone, and I want you to see if there are any names or numbers there. I don't want you to copy down any of the numbers or names. I want you to memorize them if you can. You seem to remember numbers well—at least I think you do. You have around the office."

Carol nodded, but the feeling of thrill, of well being, of contentment that she was with Devilin was leaving. She was beginning to be frightened.

Devilin went on in his brisk, business-like voice. "I should also like you to go through everything in Nick's room, his clothes in his closet, his books on the bedside table, his magazines, every page—anything might be important to me. On his desk is a box which

SYNOPSIS:

PAUL DEVILIN is a T-MAN, a treasury secret service operative, on the trail of a counterfeiting ring. Posing as a "real estate dealer," Devilin has engaged as his secretary, CAROL MAYO.

Before she had worked for him a month, Carol was in love with her employer. His attitude toward her, however, has remained entirely formal. He is apparently in love with JESSICA REYNOLDS.

Young widow whom he has met since "opening his real estate" office. It is not for four months that Carol learns what Devilin's real business actually is—when he asks her to take the place of a girl operative who has been stricken with an illness. Carol agrees.

She is to impersonate DORIS GREGG who is expected as a houseguest by the Larry Oliviers, whom Devilin suspects as the source of the flood of counterfeit money. The real Doris Gregg, a friend of Mrs. Lawrence Oliver's sister, has changed her plans but the Oliviers do not know this because Devilin has intercepted the messenger who sent them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

I should like you to examine, too, if you can—

"How do you know so much about his room?" she broke in.

"Simple, Miss Mayo. Simple. We've had operatives in the house three times in the past four months, first for the telephone lines which we purposely damaged."

"Second for the plumbing which we damaged, too, third one of our operatives who posed as a state tax collector. I have a diagram of every room in the house, especially of Nick's room. However, it did us no good to get the men in to the house. They weren't left alone for one second."

The sedan slid up to the station and Devilin slid out the motor.

"We'll wait here until the train comes in. Where was I, anyway? Oh, yes. The box on Nick's desk. You'd better take this bunch of skeleton keys, you may need them."

And he handed her a key ring with perhaps a dozen keys on the ring, some ordinary sized Yale lock keys, and others smaller, one so thin and small it looked more like a small hairpin than a key.

Carol put the bunch in her purse. "And the Oliviers, all of them have been invited to a dinner party tonight. Through our operative in the Beverly Hills telephone company we've found out that they expect to include you in the invitation—Mrs. Oliver made arrangements to have you invited, so you will be asked to go.

"DON'T want you to. I want you as soon as you meet Margaret Oliver to tell her you have a headache from your trip and you don't feel like going out. They may leave you alone in the house, and if they do, you can get started with your work. If they don't you'll have to wait for another opportunity." He took out his watch. "Fifteen minutes before train time. Is there anything else you want to know?"

There were so many things that Carol couldn't begin to ask about. There was the question of what she should do if anything happened.

If the Oliviers, especially Nick, found out she wasn't Doris Gregg, but Carol Mayo, secretary to Paul Devilin? What should she do then?

If they questioned her too much about Doris Gregg, and about Helen Hallor, who was Margaret's sister. All she knew about Doris was what Paul Devilin had told her on the way to Pasadena. That Doris had gone to high school with Helen Hallor, that Doris until she left New York had worked in a big life insurance office in the city where Helen had worked until a few months ago, herself.

So little, so very little, and so much depended on so little. One slip Carol shivered, but the next minute she was smiling up at Devilin saying in a firm voice, "No, I think you've told me everything I need to know."

"And you are not to get into communication with me, Miss Mayo, unless it is absolutely necessary. I don't think it will be. I have a feeling that on Friday the Oliviers will be putting you on a train for San Francisco, fully convinced that you are Doris Gregg."

They sat for a few minutes in silence, and then through the street noises, through the traffic of the station came the wailing whistles of the train.

Devilin called a porter and directed that the two bags be put on the train. "I'm not going on the train with you. I'm going to try to beat it back to the Santa Fe station in Los Angeles. Good luck!"

So Carol went on alone, a queer choking feeling in her throat and sudden tears welling in her eyes. They almost blinded her as she stepped into one of the cars, but she was quite composed when she took the seat which Devilin had already reserved for her.

New Magazines
The children of the household should be taught they must not cut anything from a magazine until given permission. When the older folks have read the periodicals they should then be placed in the playroom or nursery for the children to enjoy, but until they arrive there they must be taboo.

No Scratches
One ingenious housewife solved the problem of marks on her bedroom floor from the casters on the heavy bed by removing the casters and rolling a piece of adhesive tape around the outside of the casters. It acted like a rubber coating and prevented marks on the hardwood floor.

The Problem Of Returning Partner's Lead

There Is Almost Always Some Clew To Proper Procedure.

By Ely Culbertson

OCCASIONS arise when the baffling question of whether or not to return partner's lead can be solved only by clairvoyance, but these are extremely rare.

In the great preponderance of hands there is some clew to the proper procedure. Sometimes this clew is so unmistakable that all but the veriest tyro must see it.

At other times a painstaking search must be made. In today's hand a defender should have found the vital clew in the declarer's first play.

West opened the 10 of spades from his interior: sequence. Dummy played low, as did East, and declarer's queen won the trick. The 10 of hearts was then played, ducked by West and Dummy, and won by East with the jack.

East now went into a long huddle, trying to figure out whether or not the original lead had been from a respectable suit or the top of nothing. Influenced, no doubt, by the fact that he had seen his partner make a great many short suit leads, he concluded this was another instance and, therefore, decided to attempt the establishment of a long anemic diamond suit.

He laid down the diamond king and, from that point on, the declarer never gave him a chance to recover. Dummy's ace won and the 10 of diamonds was promptly returned. East ducked, but the best his partner could do was to follow suit with the nine spot. After that a diamond continuation made the contract a laydown, since declarer had two tricks in spades, two in hearts, three in diamonds, and two in clubs.

ASIDE from the general consideration that East could not afford to lead any other suit except spades, he should have been in little doubt as to the true spade situation. If declarer had held both the king and queen of spades with at least one guard (which was East's diagnosis) it is almost inconceivable that he would have played to the opening lead as he did. Declarer's play of the 10 of hearts had been evidence that he did not hold the queen, and East could see that possible entries in declarer's hand were limited to the ace of clubs. That being so, declarer certainly would have put up Dummy's spade ace immediately rather than block the suit. And, even had he failed to do so for any reason, it would have been a remarkable coincidence for him also to have failed to false-card by winning the first trick with the king instead of the queen of spades.

By all the rules of logic, therefore, East should have seen that declarer did not have the spade king, and this simple deduction would have made a spade return instead of the king of diamonds mandatory.

Obviously, on a spade return, declarer could not have come close to fulfilling his contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Suggestions for Papering Walls

By Elizabeth Boykin

THEY live in a little old white clapboard colonial house, that's as prim as a pinafore and charmingly complete from the grandfather's clock in the front hall to the grandfather himself in his rocking chair.

Right now they're repapering and puzzled about what to select. . . they've had a scenic paper in cream and beige tones for the living room but would like something different. The woodwork is white and so are the curtains, which are full and white and ruffled. The furniture is mahogany of Federal design and the rug is blue-green. The sofa is in a deep fine apricot color and there is one wing chair in a figured material with a good deal of green in it. Two other upholstered chairs need new covers and there will be new lamps and maybe a new mirror and some pictures for the walls.

"What would you suggest?" they ask.

Why not wall paper with a white ground and gold medallions in it. Then for the new chair coverings a figured scenic material that is mostly bronze color. For lamps and accessories, we'd like crystal, or pressed hobnail glass, and for the walls a Federal eagle on the frame. Then silhouettes and old-fashioned pictures of grandpapa and great-aunts and maybe a bird or fruit picture or two. And how sweet it would be if they would get hold of some little Staffordshire figures to go in a row across the mantel.

Milk Bottles
Wash your milk bottle thoroughly before returning them to the milk company with which you deal. It is not only more sanitary but the bottles look a lot better outside your door than half-washed bottles.

No Chances
Why take chances when it is not necessary? When combining tomatoes with milk, such as in tomato bisque, first put a pinch of bicarbonate of soda in with the tomatoes, then add the milk. This will prevent curdling.

Hard on the Youngster
If you are going to make it a hard and fast rule that the child finish everything on his plate, be sure that the servings are not too large. You are catering to a smaller stomach, you know.

Propriety in Invitations of Various Sorts

An Answer is Required to Request to Attend a Cocktail Party.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: WHEN an invitation is extended as follows: "You will come to see me, won't you?"—"You must come to see me sometime," by an acquaintance to whose house I have not previously been, is this sufficient invitation for me to go to see her?

Answer: This type of invitation is not usually taken seriously, but if you know the person to be very genuine and therefore feel that her hospitality was real, you would be quite right in accepting it.

Dear Mrs. Post: It is necessary to answer an invitation to a cocktail party if it does not specify that one is expected? It seems to me that this is just as general a party as an afternoon tea, and yet I really don't see why both ought not to be answered considering that both require special food.

Answer: It is not a requirement of etiquette that you answer general tea invitations, but cocktail parties are usually a small and informal gathering, for which more individual preparation is made. And certainly it would be more polite to telephone a reply, especially if you will be unable to go.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have received an invitation to dine like the following:

Mr. and Mrs. John Blank
Miss Mary Blank
Saturday the fourteenth of November from four until seven o'clock. Twin Oaks.

What type of party will this be? What type of clothes must we wear? How long are we expected to remain and what about cards and after this party what are our obligations to the Blanks?

Answer: This will be an afternoon tea and you will wear your best afternoon clothes. In a city a man would wear a cutaway coat in the country men as well as women wear country clothes. You are expected to remain as long as you are amused; this may be a polite 15 minutes or it may be an hour or so. If it is really a formal tea in the house of some one whom you know slightly, you leave two Mr. and Mrs. cards on the front hall table or in the tray presented you by a servant. In either case it is the duty of this hostess and her daughter to call upon you. Unlike the obligations of other parties, which require that each guest pay a party call, the obligations of a tea are reversed and it is the hostess and her daughter who pay a return visit upon all who left their cards in the hall. Do not be too exacting of this courtesy since it is a social year becoming less rigidly enforced.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE a neighbor who has 10 years old and another who is past 70 years when this boy and his mother saw this elderly lady the day:

"How is your boy friend who you are dressing like his mother will laugh and say, 'Oh, he gets such a kick out of me, that's the old one. To me, it is the height of grace and poor rearing she has. Please, please, please, I think in your column.'"

So very much depends upon the little boy or his mother, though, ordinarily, one of these was not the reference to the dignity of the person. In the same way, many ignorant persons address an elderly person as "grandma" or "grandpa" which shows poor breeding and lack of knowledge of the family which is due to those who are not on real terms. It also shows an unversed person does not understand that it may be a familiarity which is offensive.

It is the personal privilege of every woman to grant or refuse to be called by this term. It is justified in thinking that one who takes such a term as "little boy" or "little girl" as a compliment is a remark as an evidence of great affection, as at times, it would be an exception to this over. But an indication that is not displeasing.

My dear Mrs. Carr: I AM interested in answering your question "Terribly unhappy" for the reason that I was her age, I was as bright too and had her "grown-up" knowledge, being "grown-up" all around me. I was just a child to them. And I realized that I was dressed far too old for me and I didn't have any money. All of this was through kindness to me, but from having friends and unhappy and most of all, some.

While in school, I took speaking to keep me from being self-conscious and, having time on my hands, I read a lot. Those who fill their minds of troubles they cannot help, do not give their chance to fill up with happy thoughts and develop is just a waste of time.

I have several letters "terribly unhappy" and if she has her name and address, she did not do, sending self-addressed envelope, I would like to hear.

My dear Mrs. Carr: WONDER if there are your readers who would make some child her Christmas. I know two lovely girls who would like to ride (hobby-horse). The other one, 2 years old, is happy with any kind of I would buy these for myself, as a friend, the money to spare, but in the too small.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr: I am interested in answering the girl signing herself "Terribly Unhappy," for the reason that her intelligence appeals to me. When I was her age, I was about her height too and had her problems. Though others were growing up all around me, I was considered just a child to them. And, goodness knows, being "grown-up" is very important at that age.

I realized that I was being dressed far too old for my size and I didn't have any spending money. All of this was done through kindness to me, but it kept me from having friends and I was unhappy and most of all, lonely.

While in school, I took public speaking to keep me from being so self-conscious and, having lots of time on my hands, I read a great deal. Now that I am grown and working, I can dress myself in better taste and by this time have developed a personality myself, enough to interest people. The very things she thinks handicap her now are those which are nearly as important to grown people as she imagines. She should learn that no matter how wealthy people are in material things, they may not be satisfied with the way life is going for them.

Those who fill their minds full of troubles they cannot possibly help, do not give their minds a chance to fill up with happy, peaceful thoughts and development. It is just a waste of time.

MILDRED.

I have several letters for "Terribly Unhappy" and if she will give me her name and address, which she did not do, sending stamped self-addressed envelope, I will forward them to her.

FRIEND OF THE LITTLE FELLOWS.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I often in your column, I see where girls ask about clubs they might join where the fee is small.

The girls in this neighborhood started a club last summer and are still growing strong. If any members will come to us and join they are more than welcome. The club is a very friendly bunch. Girls ranging from the ages 14 years to 19 years may join.

During the summer certain girls are picked to form a basketball team and play against other girls on the church grounds. During the cold weather they play basketball and other games. They also have a teacher to teach them tap-dancing. The club gives dances for members only, occasionally, or parties for their friends.

If any one wishes to join they may come to weekly meetings on Thursdays at 7-9 o'clock p. m. at Grace Hill Community House, 2600 Hadley street. Girls of any religion or nationality may join.

"THE VENCEDORS."

Dear Mrs. Carr: I have a neighbor who has a boy 10 years old and another neighbor who is past 70 years. Now when I see his mother and he together I see this elderly lady the boy will say:

"How is your boy friend? Is that who you are dressing up for?" His mother will laugh and say, "Oh, he gets such a kick out of it when he says that to the old lady." It is the height of impudence and the height of impudence and the height of impudence.

Please answer what you think in your column.

ANXIOUS.

So very much depends upon the circumstances that it is hard to condemn the little boy or his mother; though, ordinarily, one would say that this was not the proper reference to the dignity of an elderly person. In the same way, a young ignorant person freely address an elderly person of their acquaintance as "Grandma". This shows poor breeding and a limited knowledge of the formal dignity which is due those with whom they are not on really intimate terms. It also shows, that the uneducated person does not understand that it may be regarded as a familiarity which older women resent.

It is the personal privilege of the elderly woman to grant permission to be called by this term, and she is justified in thinking that whoever takes such a liberty is either well born, or well reared. If this woman is an old friend and the little boy really means such a remark as an evidence of interest and affection, as children sometimes do, it would be hard to find exception to this over-familiarity. But an indication that it would not be displeasing to the

"Gamblers Are People in Need Of Excitement"

One Who Really Wants to Be Cured, Finds Another Outlet.

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1936.)
WHY'S a gambler? "A Sucker" would like to know. Yes, it's a true story. Traveling man in the 40's. Made big money from '27 to '29—lost it in the Crash. Went woody for a while. Drank, chased, developed the temper of a friend.

However, in time he cut all that out. But there was one habit he couldn't shake—gambling. Vows he will, over n' over. Then doesn't.

"Take last week," sez he. "I was busted. Said to myself, 'If I quit, I'll win $50. I'll quit.' So I did quit. But I did win $48. But did I quit? No! With-

In three days I'd sunk it all. Now I'm back where I started, vowing again I'll quit IF—but will I? Notta chance! I claim all traveling men are gamblers at heart. Elsie, what would you do in my case?"

What would I do? First—I'd stop kidding myself that I was something unique. If all traveling men are "gamblers at heart", so are 9 out of 10 other human beings. You're not different, brother, and it's just kidding your conceit to pretend you are. What you have is as old as Adam taking his chance on that apple. And if others can snap themselves out of it—which they can and have—so can you!

Having fixed that in my noodle, I'd next try to discover the why of gambling. Or any other vice. What makes respectable mortals, with an honest hunger for orderly lives, run amuck and do any of a thousand reckless things which waste their money, wreck their chances and break their hearts? Why, in short, does our seemingly perverse human nature choose danger, when it might have safety... disorder, when it might have peace? I suspect, "Sucker", that it's because most of us aren't getting the essential excitement we need. Shocking as the statement may seem, gambling supplies a missing emotional vitamin which restless, red-blooded people require for health and happiness.

Gambling, in itself, isn't wicked. It's normal and necessary. All human progress was built on a gamble. Columbus gambled. So did Washington and Abraham Lincoln and Socrates—every experimenting scientist, adventuring pioneer. No good or great thing was ever achieved without a gamble. No life can retain its vigor and curiosity without some sort of gambling. The human being who runs no risk and frowns on taking chances—might as well be a wad of gum—and just about as inspiring.

GAMBLING which serves life is gloriously right. It's natural as breathing. It's when gambling, instead of helping, hurts life, that it becomes a menace. But WHY do we let it become a menace? Because—I repeat—we haven't enough HEALTHY risks in life. So we turn to the UNHEALTHY ones.

I'll wager, "Sucker", that if the average decent fellow who finds himself trapped by gambling, could go on a fishing or hunting trip of ten or fifteen days, or homestead a quarter section... or take up some avocation that appeals to him—carpentering, painting, automobile tinkering, iron working—he'd find the gambling fever ebbing from him like a sickness.

For it IS a sickness. All sin is a sickness. People aren't born bad. People don't want to waste their lives. But they can't adjust their natures to the muddled program of our current existence. They can't find the right jobs, the right adventures. SO THEY TAKE THE WRONG ONES.

That isn't sob-sistering, brother. It's the latest finding of modern science—as well as the theory which a young man taught 2000 years ago on the hills of Galilee. You're not a gambler, "Sucker." You're not deliberate thugs and murderers, sixteen-year-old Al and Bill. You're just sick people who need something. Go out and get it! If you REALLY WANT IT, it's waiting for you!

And if you don't really want it and won't try to get it—then you deserve all the hell you're making for yourself. Which, believe me, will be plenty.

A HOME WITH A FRIENDLY ASPECT

Both Exterior and Interior Give Impression of Serenity and Comfort

THIS COLONIAL COUNTRY HOUSE OF MR. AND MRS. L. D. JAMES SEEMS TO BREATHE A SPIRIT OF FRIENDLY WELCOME.

By JOSEPHINE WALTER

HOUSES, like people, have an individual character of their own and, to be successful, should suitably reflect the nature of the occupants. Some are dignified, some are gracious, some are haughty, some are serene and some, unfortunately, are merely shoddy.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn D. James on the corner of McKnight road and Ellsworth lane emanates a charming spirit of friendliness. The low, rambling, one-story structure, nestling, as it does into the landscape behind a split and span white wood fence, seems to breathe an invitation to come within. On entering the driveway, one is met by a pair of cocker spaniels, wagging their tails in friendly greeting which presages the gracious welcome one receives on entering the house.

Of Colonial country house design, a style with which the architect, Beverly Nelson, is thoroughly conversant, it is executed in wide board siding painted white, and old red brick. A covered porch across the center portion of the house, with brick flooring and ceiling painted skyblue, and dark green shutters at the windows contribute to the graciously informal atmosphere of the house.

Opening from this porch is the quaint entrance door, of Dutch design, with the lower and upper parts working independently of each other. Once inside, the same friendly and gracious spirit which characterizes the exterior has contributed a sense of complete livability within. Nothing startling, nothing "tricky," but what is much more difficult to achieve, an atmosphere of calm and serenity. It is the sort of home where the children and their friends can be just as comfortable as the parents and their guests.

The entrance hallway, with its gaily patterned red, white and blue paper, strikes the keynote for the rest of the house. The same colors are repeated in the hand-woven circular rug which rests on the pegged flooring used throughout the house. An antique Early American console with a suitable mirror above it is the only piece of furniture used in this hallway, but potted geraniums on white iron stands at either side of the doorway lend that touch of refreshing simplicity apparent in every room in the house.

To the right of this hall is the dining room, a room of pleasing proportions and interesting architectural detail. Matching corner cupboards, placed at either side of a long group of windows, have the back part painted in bright red. This red tone is repeated in the stylized flower of the white wallpaper which is hung about a white wood dado. A bright blue rug completes the color scheme of this room. The furniture is in the Duncan Phyfe style so suited to a room of this type.

Off the dining room is the kitchen, in which may truly be termed a "model" room of this type. Walls of apple green form a pleasant background for the cream-colored built-in cabinets which practically line the walls of the room. The working surfaces of the cabinets are all of monel metal and the lower part has a recessed base permitting toe room for the person standing before them. Answer: Tuberculosis can be cured. If free from symptoms two years, marriage is safe. There is little danger of an adult catching the disease from a closed (i. e., not coughing) case.

Force Cannot Gain Respect From Children

Parental Affection and Understanding Necessary to Have Their Devotion.

By Angelo Patri

"I READ in the papers that a college professor says that it is out of date for children to honor their parents. Now how are parents to expect to get obedience and respect from their children when such things are said by professors, and when children read them out of the papers to their parents?"

There is a "let more of this in the letter that a troubled parent wrote. Obedience without question, respect that is dead and gone forever, shown in silence in the presence of the father, seems to be the ideal relationship in the family circle here.

Parents who still cling to the notion that they own their children body and soul, that they have but to command to be instantly obeyed, no matter what the feelings or the status of the child may be, should realize that that sort of thing is dead and gone forever. Children do not belong to anybody in a property sense. They are free as spirits which, indeed, they are. Force and fear never bred respect in the minds or hearts of children. It was possible, and in the past, common, for parents to hold their children in subjection, by the power of their will and authority. But it was never possible to gain the love and respect and devotion of their children that way. The children suffered and were silent until they could get free. Then they left, never to return as children to their parents.

What parents want is not authority over the bodies of their children, but influence over their minds, communion with their souls. The big stick will never bring this to pass. Only parental affection and the understanding that this brings to parents will do that. Saying, "Yes, sir," and "No, Ma'am," may sound respectful in the ears of authority, but they are merely the gesture of helplessness in the face of tyranny for most children.

What respect do parents want? Not this surface thing, not the automatic bowing and backing. They want the overflowing love of their children that is expressed in spontaneous service. Anything else is useless because it cannot serve. Service is born of love or it is no more than the labor of slaves. The time to teach obedience is in the infancy of children. Then we insure it for their safety. But it is not set by force and fear. It is set by the co-operation of parent and child. The first step is the winning of the child's understanding of the parent's good will. He asks the child, directs or commands him to do this thing for the child's dear sake. That feeling is communicated to the child as rapidly as is the fear that is born of its opposite. And that feeling of affection and co-operation, even in times of struggle, holds and yields respect and obedience. Children who have been experienced in obedience, in the affectionate care of their parents, follow suggestions, take orders, without rebelling because they know the underlying love that prompts them. When they grow beyond the new of parental control the love still holds. There is no question of respect or of honor in relation to their parents. They love them and serve them gladly. And that is what I read into the professor's message.

Angelo Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Advice for Anemic Voters

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

YESTERDAY was the first Monday and today is the first Tuesday called for in the Constitution, the by-laws and the postscripts.

Today we elect a man to the highest and dirtiest office in the land. An office so ponderous and refulgent that even his second cousins get famous.

We vote the usual way, with pencil and paper and an "X" for each name. And three "X's" in case you got a middle name. Nobody knows how you vote unless it happens to be twice.

Nobody is allowed to intimidate an American about to enter the two-ballot garage. Pay no attention to the button-eyed gorilla standing there with 10 cents worth of hickory wood in his hand. He is more than balanced socially by the tough-looking mug with the yard of lead pipe. No matter what happens, no matter how you vote, one of them is sure to be on your side.

The average citizen is not physically endowed with the muscular paraphernalia essential to the settlement of elections by brute strength. That's why voters are equipped with lead pencils instead of shillalabs and dizzy sticks.

The question is entirely a mental one. You vote for a candidate because you think he is the better man. Or, at least, you hope so. But when you get to the poles you are greeted by a corrugated muzzler who pokes his finger into your eye and says, "You know what's what."

When a skizle-faced gorilla meets you at the ballot box with a "Nice weeder we're having, Toots," you know that his climatic prognostication actually constitutes a health report. Therefore, it would be well for your future horoscope if you observed the partisan button in his lapel and guided your faltering political gyrations accordingly.

We do not insist that political ham-burgering and battery are nationwide. All that we know is that in our voting booth in our residential district there are belligerent-looking jungle-bums waddling back and forth like unchaperoned orang-outangs.

If this be treason we will take a run-out powder. If a blank ballot appears in tomorrow's recapitulation, you will know that a still healthy Bugs decided that discretion is 11-10th of valor.
